Conservatives Favored To Win Canada Election

TORONTO (AP)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservative party was strongly favored Sunday to defeat the Liberals in Monday's national election and to continue in power.

As the hard-fought campaign ended, however, Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson maintained his party would win back the rule it lost last June after 22 years in office.

Political experts almost without exception picked the Conservatives to win. The latest public poll reported a substantial increase in pro-Conservative sentiment since the 1957 election.

Both the experts and the polls were wrong last June, when the Conservatives staged their upset, and they could be wrong again.

The major party leaders ended their seven weeks of campaigning Saturday night and are awaiting the balloting in their home districts. Under Canadian law, no political statements may be carried on radio within 48 hours before an election.

A record number of more than nine million persons is eligible to vote. Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. The weather has been fine over most of Canada for the last few days and, if it continues Monday a heavy vote is expected.

The main battle has been between the Conservatives and Liberals, but the Socialist Cooperative Commonwealth Federation and Social Credit—a conservative party—have waged strong campaigns in the west. In Canada—as in England—the voters do not ballot directly for the prime minister's office but only for their own local candidates for the House of Commons. If the Conservatives win a majority of the 265 seats, Diefenbaker will continue as prime minister. If the Liberals win a majority, Pearson will head a new Liberal government.

Weather Balks Aerial Efforts To Aid Skiers

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—Storm clouds reaching four miles high Sunday balked all aerial efforts to aid four student skiers stranded at 11,000 feet in the High Sierra. One of the marooned four is believed seriously ill with pneumonia.

Warrant Officer, J. J. Cooney, Army helicopter pilot was standing by at Fresno, however, hoping the ceiling would lift enough to let him fly to Yosemite Park headquarters.

Cooney said he then would be within 20 minutes flight of the snow-piled camp of the four students on Mt. Lyell, 25 miles from the Yosemite Valley floor. He said then he would be ready for a quick rescue hop with the first weather break.

An Air Force attempt to drop a paramedic team Sunday was balked by the clouds of a heavy Sierra storm.

Two of the four marooned Stanford students are girls. Lenore Lamb, 21, of Orinda, Calif., and Margaret Meyer, 21, of Seattle and Mike Roberts, 21, of Neenah, Wis., stayed with ailing William Pope, 21, of San Francisco, when two other companions hiked out for help.

All were worn by fatigue on a cross-country ski hike started eight days ago. They had been hit by frequent mountain storms.

Bob Symons, Bishop, Calif., pilot of a small ski plane, flew over the Mt. Lyell site late Saturday and said the students had not stamped out any message in the snow.

He dropped a message instructing the students to stamp out the letter "O" in the snow if they were in need of oxygen but they did not answer.

A 10-man land rescue party struggled through deep snow toward the students but they were not expected to reach them until Tuesday.

Israeli, Syrian Tanks In Battle

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Syria fought a battle of tanks and mortars Sunday in a new flareup on the border near the Huleh reclamation area.

In Damascus, an army spokesman warned regular forces of the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria would intervene "to repel the aggression by force."

The Syrian spokesman said two Syrians were killed and two wounded slightly. He reported an Israeli tank was destroyed.

There was no announcement of Israeli casualties.

The U.N. Armistice Commission arranged a cease-fire after the two sides had blazed away for 75 minutes.

Israel charged the Syrians opened up with small arms fire from strongholds near the truce zone when Israeli laborers moved in to start work. It said the laborers had U.N. approval to enter the area.

An Israeli army spokesman said Israeli tanks opened fire on the strongholds but later the Syrians fired mortar shells that hit Tubil village, east of the Huleh reclamation project. The spokesman said the tanks made some direct hits on the Syrian fortifications.

The Syrian spokesman said the Israeli tanks shelled two Arab villages and that Israeli troops fired on Syrian villagers. He said the Syrians resorted to mortar fire when the Israelis ignored a cease-fire ultimatum.

Housing, Farm Bill Reports Studied By Ike

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower explored East-West summit conference possibilities in a telephone conference with Secretary of State Dulles after attending Palm Sunday church services.

In the seclusion of his 14-room country mansion, a White House spokesman said the President also studied reports on housing and farm bills which are awaiting his action, expected within the next few days.

Eisenhower may sign the anti-recession housing bill, which provides $1,850,000,000 to promote new home construction, and possibly veto the bill to freeze farm supports at 1957 levels for one year.

Interrupts Quiet Weekend

The President, the spokesman said, has been interrupting with occasional desk work in his library a quiet weekend of rest, romping with grandchildren, inspections of his farm, and a bit of skeet shooting.

Twice Saturday and once Sunday he had Dulles on the phone in Washington. They were reported to have gone over the administration position that adequate preparation must precede any summit conference in order to provide some assurance that a heads-of-government session could accomplish something constructive in the way of lifting world tensions.

Dulles, the White House spokesman said, relayed word to the chief executive that America's NATO allies are holding to similar views. The secretary has been briefed on Allied views by Ralph Burgess, U. S. ambassador to NATO, who is back from Paris for a brief business visit in this country.

Ike, Mamie Attend Church

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower partook of Communion at the Presbyterian church where Abraham Lincoln worshiped before delivering his Gettysburg Address.

Along with an overflow congregation, they heard the Rev. Robert A. MacAskill deliver a brief meditation on "The Meaning of the March" — the triumphal march of Jesus into Jerusalem before he was betrayed, seized and crucified.

The march, the minister said, carried a lesson of repentance, redemption and a rebuke to the Pharisees who opposed Jesus.

Quick-Thinking Pilot Saves 90

NEW YORK (AP) — Capt. Jack Guthrie suddenly threw his four-engined transport plane into a steep, passenger-jarring dive Sunday about 75 miles from New York —and probably saved the lives of at least 90 persons by doing so.

Guthrie told authorities he was flying to New York from Miami with 83 passengers and four other crewmen aboard when he saw a twin-engine plane coming at him head on.

He put the National Airlines DC6 into a steep dive for about 100 feet. Passengers sprawled into the aisles. Hand luggage tumbled onto them from overhead racks. But the two planes missed each other.

The 37-year-old Guthrie, a veteran of 14 years flying service, explained the maneuver over the intercom afterward and apologized to the passengers. At Idlewild Airport, 11 passengers claimed injuries—cuts, bruises and shock—but all were released after treatment.

Mother Seeking Return Of Baby Noboby Wanted

DETROIT (AP) — A 25-year-old mother said Sunday she will ask welfare authorities in Columbus, Ohio, to return her son—the baby nobody wanted.

Mrs. Barbara Velcich, was informed Saturday night her son, 20-months-old Tommy, had been placed in a Columbus children's home since his grandmother tried to give him away to a customer in a drugstore. She sobbed, "I don't want to give him away."

The child's grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Mccoy, told police her son and daughter-in-law had abandoned Tommy with her and she was unable to care for him.

However, Mrs. Velcich and her husband, Denny, said they had been trying for weeks to contact the grandmother and bring Tommy home.

"If I'd known this was going to happen, I'd have hitch-hiked there to get him," said Mrs. Velcich, who is expecting her third child in July. Tommy has a sister, Arlene, 9 months.

Mrs. Velcich called the Franklin Children's Home and she said the authorities there told her Tommy was well—"except he's got a little head cold."

When newspaper accounts of Mrs. Mccoy's offer to give Tommy away were published, the children's home said phone calls poured in from people in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky with offers to adopt him.

Mrs. Velcich said she hasn't seen Tommy since last January when she visited him in Phelps, Ky., where Mrs. Mccoy was caring for the boy.

Tommy had been with his grandmother since last fall when his parents were separated temporarily.

Russian Bid Seen To End Atomic Tests

May Propose Date For Cutoff, Go It Alone If Rebuffed

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said Sunday they expected Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to propose to the United States Monday a date for an end of nuclear bomb tests. He will say Russia is ready to halt tests on its own if the United States refuses, they added.

Gromyko is scheduled to go before the Supreme Soviet — parliament — Monday afternoon with his report on "the cessation of tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

Western quarters have been expecting a Soviet decision to end its atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

Protest Rejected By U.S.

(Russia laid what looked like the groundwork for such a move Saturday when it protested against use by the United States of U.N. trust areas of the Pacific for testing atomic and hydrogen bombs. The State Department rejected the protest and said the United States would go ahead as planned.

(If Gromyko does propose a deadline, he might choose a date before the U.S. tests begin. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said in Washington no specific date has been set for the tests but that the area around Eniwetok will be declared a danger zone April 5. Tests could begin any time thereafter.

(The Russians have been conducting a series of nuclear tests in Siberia).

Cabinet Speculation

Monday's joint session of the Supreme Soviet's two houses opens with Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement of his new Cabinet. There was much speculation in Moscow on its make-up, but little in the way of facts.

There was a hint ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin was not headed for immediate political oblivion. His name appeared Sunday behind Khrushchev's and President Klementi Voroshilov's — but ahead of all Soviet marshals — in the signing of the official death notice of Col. Gen. Nikolai P. Pukhov, a top-ranking Soviet soldier.

Most sources here expect to see Bulganin named a deputy premier.

Rebels Blow Up Padang Airstrip

PADANG, Central Sumatra (AP) — Indonesian rebels blasted holes in the Padang landing field Sunday and ordered some civilians into the mountains in preparation for a possible government assault on this revolutionary nerve center.

The airstrip was the only serviceable one in the area. The Jakarta government has been threatening an invasion of Padang since the start of fighting earlier this month.

The rebel military command told all civilians to leave the harbor front for a temporary period. The area has been bombarded periodically by government warships since the revolutionary government was proclaimed Feb. 15.

Some taxis were seen leaving the harbor area with villagers and their belongings, but in the center of Padang the evacuation order did not seem to bring any change in the placid atmosphere.

The revolutionary command also barred civilians from the airport. Soldiers warned that roads leading to and from the runway were mined.

Reports from Jakarta quoted military spokesman as saying a combined army, navy and air force blow against Padang may come any time.

The central government capital was said to be highly optimistic as a result of a series of easy victories scored since Jakarta forces captured three key islands in the Riouw group off Sumatra's east coast March 10.

Senate Probers Turn To Indiana Strike Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Its stormy, wrangling Kohler strike investigation ended, the Senate Rackets Committee turns Monday to hearings on gunplay violence in another United Auto Workers strike—the Perfect Circle Corp. strike of 1955.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he planned to wind up this inquiry with two days of testimony. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), who had insisted on the inquiry, said if it takes longer than that "we ought to just give up."

The 1955 violence in New Castle, Ind., reached a peak in a rifle battle between strikers and nonstrikers which brought a declaration of martial law. The committee's objective is to try to find out who was responsible—the union or the company.

Partisan clashes between the committee members themselves and with some of their witnesses marked the Kohler Co. hearings which ended Saturday. The senators said privately they expected little or none of this in the Perfect Circle probe.

McClellan announced the committee hoped to take a long Easter recess that would put off for at least a week the scheduled April 7 start of hearings on Teamsters Union affairs in Philadelphia.

There was no indication whether the committee might try to hand down an early "verdict" on its hearings into the violence which has marked the marathon strike at the Kohler Co. plant in Wisconsin.

The strike situation at the end of the hearings remained exactly where it was at the start. The UAW's strike, nearly four years old, continues without sign of a break.

The company, makers of plumbing fixtures, remains in operation with a staff of nonstrikers and new employes and claims "the union has lost."

Navy Pilot Dies In Plane Crash

WEIRTON (AP) — A Navy pilot died at 4:20 p.m. EST Sunday when his attack bomber crashed in a gully five miles north of here and disintegrated.

The lone occupant of the craft, which narrowly missed two homes before hitting the ground and exploding, was identified by the Naval Air Station at Columbus, Ohio, as Ensign L. K. Stovall, about 27, of Oceana, Va.

The station said the single-engine AD-6 was en route from Selfridge Field, Mich., to Oceana, a large naval installation near Virginia Beach.

Authorities here said that wreckage was strewn over a half-mile area.

U.S. And India Agree

NEW DELHI (AP) — The United States and India have reached complete agreement on plans for a 225-million-dollar loan to India, Hawthorne Arey, director of the Export Import Bank, said Sunday.

Humphrey Urges New Youth Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) Sunday proposed a 150,000-member Youth Conservation Corps as an "answer both to the problem of rural underemployment and that of the idle city boy in need of a good, healthy job."

The Minnesota Democrat said the YCC could be patterned after the depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps established just 25 years ago. He said Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn), a former CCC enrollee, is offering an identical bill in the House.

Humphrey proposed that the YCC be formed of 75 per cent of young men 17 to 23 years old, 15 per cent of skilled older men to supervise, and 10 per cent of Indians on reservation lands.

Demos Line Up Farm Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are arranging a "save-the-farmer" demonstration in Congress to greet an expected veto by President Eisenhower this week of a bill freezing crop price supports for one year.

Although he presently has little hope of overriding a veto, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has kept aides at work in efforts to line up a maximum Democratic vote in the attempt.

It apparently is Johnson's belief the Democrats can demonstrate in such a vote they are the farmers' friends and that Republicans must assume the major share of any political blame accruing in the death of a bill aimed at keeping supports at 1957 levels or higher.

Eisenhower was reported drafting a conciliatory message to Congress, possibly offering some alternatives to aid a farm economy that at least temporarily appears to be somewhat on the upswing.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California told reporters he would not be surprised if the message is accompanied by "some suggestions or recommendations for other measures to benefit the farmers."

Turncoat Ends Self-Imposed Exile In China

HONG KONG (AP)—U.S. turncoat LaRance Sullivan returned Sunday from his self-imposed exile in Red China. He said he was going home "to work there for peace."

The lanky, 27-year-old Negro from Omaha, Neb., and Santa Barbara, Calif., was captured in Korea Nov. 23, 1950, and refused repatriation in 1954. Like 21 other turncoats, he was dishonorably discharged from the U.S. Army.

Sullivan crossed the border from Red China dressed in a blue suit. He looked fit. He told newsmen he wanted to be the first of the three Negro turncoats to return home. This led to speculation the others would soon want to go home. They are Clarence C. Adams of Memphis, Tenn., and William C. White of Kansas City. Sullivan has been described as the bitterest of the American turncoats.

"I went to China to work and study and to add my voice to the cause of peace," Sullivan said. "I did work and study and I was very happy among a soul-stirring people — a peace-loving people — but I thought it was time to come home."

Asked what he studied in China, he said: "The international situation which today is really in a state of hysteria caused by warmongers."

What did he accomplish in China?

"I went to China with the skin and heart of a Negro. I lived happily with the people in a spirit of peace."

He said he worked in a factory in Wuhan and was paid a subsidy by the Peiping government. He said he was satisfied with his treatment.

Cardinal Dies At 93

Kiss And Make Up

Marquis Satisfies Honor By Nicking Ballet Master

PARIS (AP) — The Marquis de Cuevas got vengeance on the field of honor Sunday. He nicked ballet master Serge Lifar on the forearm with an epee. Then they kissed and made up.

The duel looked something like a ballet written by Lifar and staged by the 73-year-old marquis. But it satisfied all the requirements of honor, according to the dueling code.

Duels are forbidden, and this one was supposed to be secret. But 100 peasants and an army of newspaper photographers and reporters assembled on the field of honor at the village of Blaru outside Paris.

As they prepared for the duel, the marquis was heard to remark: "I'll throw all my courage into it."

Lifar had given the challenge because the marquis, in staging a Lifar ballet, had done a little editing with the original script.

Lifar learned to handle a sword as a cadet in Czarist Russia. He advanced, prancing about like the ballet master he is. The marquis a novice with dueling hardware, was not quite so fancy.

The first exchange with the epee, a dueling weapon with a sharp point but no cutting edge, was uneasy. Things pepped up in the third of the two-minute rounds.

Then in the fourth, the marquis flicked Lifar's forearm. A thin trickle of blood appeared. The seconds ordered a halt.

The marquis beamed. The 52-year-old Lifar took his defeat with a grin as his seconds daubed the blood on his forearm.

Then they became friends again. Each kissed the other on the cheek. The 10-day feud was over.

Ike Aide Says Tax Decision Awaits Study

18 Senators Urge Early Hearings On Jobless Pay Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Gabriel Hague, President Eisenhower's personal economic adviser, said Sunday the administration is leaning neither toward nor away from a possible tax cut.

"I think we're standing straight up, looking at the facts," Hague said.

The White House economist said in an NBC-TV interview—"Meet the Press"—that it would be several weeks before the administration decides whether a tax reduction is needed to counter the current recession.

This decision, he added, would not be based on any single economic index, such as unemployment figures, but on a broad study of all factors.

Hague said he believes actions already taken are beginning to slow down the slump and he reaffiremd a prediction that the April-June quarter "will see the bottom of the downturn."

If the slump is brought to a halt in the second quarter, he said, "in the autumn we would begin to see real signs of a lift."

Jobless Pay Hearings Urged

Asked about the possible future course of unemployment, Hague declined to agree with a suggestion that six million Americans will be jobless before the recession ends.

He said he expects the March unemployment figures to be closer to February's level of 5,200,000 than to six million. The March statistics will be made public in about two weeks.

Seventeen Senate Democrats and one Republican appealed Sunday for early Finance Committee hearings on a proposal to liberalize the unemployment compensation system. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) is principal sponsor of specific legislation the group is backing and is serving as the group's spokesman.

They addressed their plea to Sen. Byrd (D-Va), the committee chairman, who announced coincidentally that the finance group will resume on Tuesday its public study of the nation's financial condition.

Baruch Leadoff Witness

Byrd said Bernard Baruch will be the leadoff witness. The 77-year-old financier and adviser to presidents will discuss "the present economic difficulties."

In other developments:

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said some governors are stalling on using available federal funds for public works, particularly highway construction. He said they should put this money to work "instead of weeping and wailing about the alleged lack of action in Washington."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) plugged for a bill which he and Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) are sponsoring. Kefauver said it could spur action on some two billion dollars worth of local public works through low-interest federal loans.

The comptroller of the currency announced that total assets of national banks increased by four billion dollars—to 120½ billions—in the last three months of 1957. Comptroller Ray M. Gidney said deposits climbed by five billions to 109 billions.

Castro's Hour Believed Near

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Predictions flew thick and fast from both government and rebel supporters Sunday that Fidel Castro will strike his blow against President Fulgencio Batista this Holy Week.

Government troops and police were reinforced in all strategic sectors as rebels slipped about the country distributing arms to civilians.

All banks, military establishments, public buildings, transport and communication centers were heavily guarded. Street patrols were intensified.

Scores of police swarmed through streets, hotels, night clubs and other public places seizing rebel sympathizers and grabbing up rebel leaflets proclaiming Castro's hour is near.

The bearded rebel leader with headquarters in Oriente Province has given Batista until April 5 to resign or face total war with a general strike.

Some quarters expected the strike to be called before Good Friday. Castro claims workers throughout the nation have been secretly organized for the walkout.

The child's grandmother, Mrs. Nettie Mccoy, told police her son and daughter-in-law had abandoned Tommy with her and she was unable to care for him.

However, Mrs. Velcich and her husband, Denny, said they had been trying for weeks to contact the grandmother and bring Tommy home.

"If I'd known this was going to happen, I'd have hitch-hiked there to get him," said Mrs. Velcich, who is expecting her third child in July. Tommy has a sister, Arlene, 9 months.

Mrs. Velcich called the Franklin Children's Home and she said the authorities there told her Tommy was well—"except he's got a little head cold."

When newspaper accounts of Mrs. Mccoy's offer to give Tommy away were published, the children's home said phone calls poured in from people in Ohio, West Virginia, Indiana and Kentucky with offers to adopt him.

Mrs. Velcich said she hasn't seen Tommy since last January when she visited him in Phelps, Ky., where Mrs. Mccoy was caring for the boy.

Tommy had been with his grandmother since last fall when his parents were separated temporarily.

Russian Bid Seen To End Atomic Tests

May Propose Date For Cutoff, Go It Alone If Rebuffed

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist sources said Sunday they expected Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko to propose to the United States Monday a date for an end of nuclear bomb tests. He will say Russia is ready to halt tests on its own if the United States refuses, they added.

Gromyko is scheduled to go before the Supreme Soviet — parliament — Monday afternoon with his report on "the cessation of tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons."

Western quarters have been expecting a Soviet decision to end its atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

Protest Rejected By U.S.

(Russia laid what looked like the groundwork for such a move Saturday when it protested against use by the United States of U.N. trust areas of the Pacific for testing atomic and hydrogen bombs. The State Department rejected the protest and said the United States would go ahead as planned.

(If Gromyko does propose a deadline, he might choose a date before the U.S. tests begin. The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said in Washington no specific date has been set for the tests but that the area around Eniwetok will be declared a danger zone April 5. Tests could begin any time thereafter.

(The Russians have been conducting a series of nuclear tests in Siberia).

Cabinet Speculation

Monday's joint session of the Supreme Soviet's two houses opens with Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement of his new Cabinet. There was much speculation in Moscow on its make-up, but little in the way of facts.

There was a hint ex-Premier Nikolai Bulganin was not headed for immediate political oblivion. His name appeared Sunday behind Khrushchev's and President Klementi Voroshilov's — but ahead of all Soviet marshals — in the signing of the official death notice of Col. Gen. Nikolai P. Pukhov, a top-ranking Soviet soldier.

Most sources here expect to see Bulganin named a deputy premier.

Rebels Blow Up Padang Airstrip

PADANG, Central Sumatra (AP) — Indonesian rebels blasted holes in the Padang landing field Sunday and ordered some civilians into the mountains in preparation for a possible government assault on this revolutionary nerve center.

The airstrip was the only serviceable one in the area. The Jakarta government has been threatening an invasion of Padang since the start of fighting earlier this month.

The rebel military command told all civilians to leave the harbor front for a temporary period. The area has been bombarded periodically by government warships since the revolutionary government was proclaimed Feb. 15.

Some taxis were seen leaving the harbor area with villagers and their belongings, but in the center of Padang the evacuation order did not seem to bring any change in the placid atmosphere.

The revolutionary command also barred civilians from the airport. Soldiers warned that roads leading to and from the runway were mined.

Reports from Jakarta quoted military spokesman as saying a combined army, navy and air force blow against Padang may come any time.

The central government capital was said to be highly optimistic as a result of a series of easy victories scored since Jakarta forces captured three key islands in the Riouw group off Sumatra's east coast March 10.

Senate Probers Turn To Indiana Strike Violence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Its stormy, wrangling Kohler strike investigation ended, the Senate Rackets Committee turns Monday to hearings on gunplay violence in another United Auto Workers strike—the Perfect Circle Corp. strike of 1955.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said he planned to wind up this inquiry with two days of testimony. Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), who had insisted on the inquiry, said if it takes longer than that "we ought to just give up."

The 1955 violence in New Castle, Ind., reached a peak in a rifle battle between strikers and nonstrikers which brought a declaration of martial law. The committee's objective is to try to find out who was responsible—the union or the company.

Partisan clashes between the committee members themselves and with some of their witnesses marked the Kohler Co. hearings which ended Saturday. The senators said privately they expected little or none of this in the Perfect Circle probe.

McClellan announced the committee hoped to take a long Easter recess that would put off for at least a week the scheduled April 7 start of hearings on Teamsters Union affairs in Philadelphia.

There was no indication whether the committee might try to hand down an early "verdict" on its hearings into the violence which has marked the marathon strike at the Kohler Co. plant in Wisconsin.

The strike situation at the end of the hearings remained exactly where it was at the start. The UAW's strike, nearly four years old, continues without sign of a break.

The company, makers of plumbing fixtures, remains in operation with a staff of nonstrikers and new employes and claims "the union has lost."

Navy Pilot Dies In Plane Crash

WEIRTON (AP) — A Navy pilot died at 4:20 p.m. EST Sunday when his attack bomber crashed in a gully five miles north of here and disintegrated.

The lone occupant of the craft, which narrowly missed two homes before hitting the ground and exploding, was identified by the Naval Air Station at Columbus, Ohio, as Ensign L. K. Stovall, about 27, of Oceana, Va.

The station said the single-engine AD-6 was en route from Selfridge Field, Mich., to Oceana, a large naval installation near Virginia Beach.

Authorities here said that wreckage was strewn over a half-mile area.

Humphrey Urges New Youth Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) Sunday proposed a 150,000-member Youth Conservation Corps as an "answer both to the problem of rural underemployment and that of the idle city boy in need of a good, healthy job."

The Minnesota Democrat said the YCC could be patterned after the depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps established just 25 years ago. He said Rep. Blatnik (D-Minn), a former CCC enrollee, is offering an identical bill in the House.

Humphrey proposed that the YCC be formed of 75 per cent of young men 17 to 23 years old, 15 per cent of skilled older men to supervise, and 10 per cent of Indians on reservation lands.

Demos Line Up Farm Bill Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are arranging a "save-the-farmer" demonstration in Congress to greet an expected veto by President Eisenhower this week of a bill freezing crop price supports for one year.

Although he presently has little hope of overriding a veto, Senate Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas has kept aides at work in efforts to line up a maximum Democratic vote in the attempt.

It apparently is Johnson's belief the Democrats can demonstrate in such a vote they are the farmers' friends and that Republicans must assume the major share of any political blame accruing in the death of a bill aimed at keeping supports at 1957 levels or higher.

Eisenhower was reported drafting a conciliatory message to Congress, possibly offering some alternatives to aid a farm economy that at least temporarily appears to be somewhat on the upswing.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland of California told reporters he would not be surprised if the message is accompanied by "some suggestions or recommendations for other measures to benefit the farmers."

Kiss And Make Up

Marquis Satisfies Honor By Nicking Ballet Master

PARIS (AP) — The Marquis de Cuevas got vengeance on the field of honor Sunday. He nicked ballet master Serge Lifar on the forearm with an epee. Then they kissed and made up.

The duel looked something like a ballet written by Lifar and staged by the 73-year-old marquis. But it satisfied all the requirements of honor, according to the dueling code.

Duels are forbidden, and this one was supposed to be secret. But 100 peasants and an army of newspaper photographers and reporters assembled on the field of honor at the village of Blaru outside Paris.

As they prepared for the duel, the marquis was heard to remark: "I'll throw all my courage into it."

Lifar had given the challenge because the marquis, in staging a Lifar ballet, had done a little editing with the original script.

Lifar learned to handle a sword as a cadet in Czarist Russia. He advanced, prancing about like the ballet master he is. The marquis a novice with dueling hardware, was not quite so fancy.

The first exchange with the epee, a dueling weapon with a sharp point but no cutting edge, was uneasy. Things pepped up in the third of the two-minute rounds.

Then in the fourth, the marquis flicked Lifar's forearm. A thin trickle of blood appeared. The seconds ordered a halt.

The marquis beamed. The 52-year-old Lifar took his defeat with a grin as his seconds daubed the blood on his forearm.

Then they became friends again. Each kissed the other on the cheek. The 10-day feud was over.

Turncoat Ends Self-Imposed Exile In China

HONG KONG (AP)—U.S. turncoat LaRance Sullivan returned Sunday from his self-imposed exile in Red China. He said he was going home "to work there for peace."

The lanky, 27-year-old Negro from Omaha, Neb., and Santa Barbara, Calif., was captured in Korea Nov. 23, 1950, and refused repatriation in 1954. Like 21 other turncoats, he was dishonorably discharged from the U.S. Army.

Sullivan crossed the border from Red China dressed in a blue suit. He looked fit. He told newsmen he wanted to be the first of the three Negro turncoats to return home. This led to speculation the others would soon want to go home. They are Clarence C. Adams of Memphis, Tenn., and William C. White of Kansas City. Sullivan has been described as the bitterest of the American turncoats.

"I went to China to work and study and to add my voice to the cause of peace," Sullivan said. "I did work and study and I was very happy among a soul-stirring people — a peace-loving people — but I thought it was time to come home."

Asked what he studied in China, he said: "The international situation which today is really in a state of hysteria caused by warmongers."

What did he accomplish in China?

"I went to China with the skin and heart of a Negro. I lived happily with the people in a spirit of peace."

He said he worked in a factory in Wuhan and was paid a subsidy by the Peiping government. He said he was satisfied with his treatment.

Ike Aide Says Tax Decision Awaits Study

18 Senators Urge Early Hearings On Jobless Pay Plans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dr. Gabriel Hague, President Eisenhower's personal economic adviser, said Sunday the administration is leaning neither toward nor away from a possible tax cut.

"I think we're standing straight up, looking at the facts," Hague said.

The White House economist said in an NBC-TV interview—"Meet the Press"—that it would be several weeks before the administration decides whether a tax reduction is needed to counter the current recession.

This decision, he added, would not be based on any single economic index, such as unemployment figures, but on a broad study of all factors.

Hague said he believes actions already taken are beginning to slow down the slump and he reaffiremd a prediction that the April-June quarter "will see the bottom of the downturn."

If the slump is brought to a halt in the second quarter, he said, "in the autumn we would begin to see real signs of a lift."

Jobless Pay Hearings Urged

Asked about the possible future course of unemployment, Hague declined to agree with a suggestion that six million Americans will be jobless before the recession ends.

He said he expects the March unemployment figures to be closer to February's level of 5,200,000 than to six million. The March statistics will be made public in about two weeks.

Seventeen Senate Democrats and one Republican appealed Sunday for early Finance Committee hearings on a proposal to liberalize the unemployment compensation system. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) is principal sponsor of specific legislation the group is backing and is serving as the group's spokesman.

They addressed their plea to Sen. Byrd (D-Va), the committee chairman, who announced coincidentally that the finance group will resume on Tuesday its public study of the nation's financial condition.

Baruch Leadoff Witness

Byrd said Bernard Baruch will be the leadoff witness. The 77-year-old financier and adviser to presidents will discuss "the present economic difficulties."

In other developments:

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said some governors are stalling on using available federal funds for public works, particularly highway construction. He said they should put this money to work "instead of weeping and wailing about the alleged lack of action in Washington."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) plugged for a bill which he and Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) are sponsoring. Kefauver said it could spur action on some two billion dollars worth of local public works through low-interest federal loans.

The comptroller of the currency announced that total assets of national banks increased by four billion dollars—to 120½ billions—in the last three months of 1957. Comptroller Ray M. Gidney said deposits climbed by five billions to 109 billions.

Castro's Hour Believed Near

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—Predictions flew thick and fast from both government and rebel supporters Sunday that Fidel Castro will strike his blow against President Fulgencio Batista this Holy Week.

Government troops and police were reinforced in all strategic sectors as rebels slipped about the country distributing arms to civilians.

All banks, military establishments, public buildings, transport and communication centers were heavily guarded. Street patrols were intensified.

Scores of police swarmed through streets, hotels, night clubs and other public places seizing rebel sympathizers and grabbing up rebel leaflets proclaiming Castro's hour is near.

The bearded rebel leader with headquarters in Oriente Province has given Batista until April 5 to resign or face total war with a general strike.

States Split On Ike's Jobless Benefit Plan

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Eisenhower's proposal for temporary extension of unemployment compensation benefits has been met by the states with a mixture of approval, outright opposition and some doubt.

A survey conducted by The Associated Press also turned up a feeling in several states that any such extension should be paid for by federal grants. The administration's repayable loan plan was greeted nowhere with any great enthusiasm.

There were indications that even if Congress should pass the administration's plan—and it's running into some opposition on Capitol Hill—a number of states would have to convene their legislatures in special session so enabling legislation could be considered.

Eisenhower has proposed a 50 per cent increase in the number of weeks jobless workers, eligible for unemployment benefits, can collect payments. The benefit periods and amounts vary from state to state. In a state which now has a 26-week benefit period, Eisenhower's plan would add 13 more weeks.

That plan—which would be effective until April 1, 1959—would not increase the amount of individual payments. It would cost an estimated 600 million dollars.

Of the 5,200,000 persons estimated to have been out of work in mid-February, about two million were not covered by state unemployment compensation laws and were ineligible for any jobless benefits.

Eisenhower said he was proposing an extension in the payment period because many eligible workers have exhausted their benefits in the current recession. Secretary of Labor Mitchell said Friday about 2,300,000 workers will reach the limit of their benefits, under present law, this year. He called for quick action to meet "an immediate and urgent need."

The Eisenhower proposal would place federal financing on a loan basis. The states would repay the federal government after four years either through an increase in unemployment compensation taxes on employers, through direct appropriation or through transfer of credits from the jobless insurance fund.

Part of the congressional criticism of the Eisenhower plan has come from Democrats who advocate a generally broader increase in benefits, to be paid for by the federal government without state help. There also are Democratic proposals for permanent improvement of unemployment pay benefits and extension of coverage. On the other hand, some Republicans have voiced concern that an emergency program, once enacted, might not be ended.

Several New England governors gave strong endorsement to Eisenhower's proposal. Republican Gov. Lane Dwinell of New Hampshire said he was especially pleased because the President, as Dwinell put it, recognized that unemployment compensation "is a state responsibility." Republican Gov. Joseph B. Johnson of Vermont said the plan would "not be a cure-all but would help boost purchasing power on a nationwide scale."

On the other side of the issue was Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia who has voiced objections to what he viewed as an enforced federal dole feature in the Eisenhower proposal.

Democratic Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas said he wanted no part of any plan that provides for state repayment of any emergency unemployment compensation funds. He said that he and other members of a governors committee who discussed the matter with Eisenhower some time ago understood that "the federal government was to assume all responsibility."

Some governors trod the middle ground, waiting for more definite indications of how the final plan, if any, will shape up.

Republican Gov. George D. Clyde of Utah said he is "watching with interest to see the results" the President's proposal will produce.

In Maryland, Republican Gov. Theodore McKeldin said he would take the necessary action "if and when Congress passed the bill and after consultation with employment security Authorities I found the need was still sufficient to warrant it."

Republican Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia said he believes his state could not legally accept any repayable advance without specific authorization from the Legislature. But he said he knows of no bar to acceptance of an outright grant from the federal government.

New U.S. Rocket Plane Red Hot

NEW YORK (AP) — The newest U.S. rocket plane, designed to carry a man into the near reaches of space, will glow red hot on its lightning return to earth.

This was disclosed Sunday by North American Aviation Co. which is in charge of building the plane, the X15.

The experimental air and space ship could easily be made into a space satellite capable of carrying a man and bringing him back to earth, North American said.

The rocket plane should be ready for test flight early in 1959.

It is designed primarily to study flight conditions and man's ability to withstand altitudes above the 100-mile level and the subsequent return to earth.

North American said the X15 will flash across the heavens at 3,600 miles an hour, better than a mile a second — about 40 minutes between Los Angeles and New York.

Returning to earth posed the problem of severe heat caused by re-entering the earth's atmosphere, as well as the problem of protecting the equipment and the man inside.

The X15's stainless steel skin, made with a special alloy to resist the heat and the temperature change, turns red hot as the plane hits the dense atmosphere and friction results.

But the slim rocket passes through this stage so quickly that the heat will not damage the metal.

The flesh and blood cargo — the pilot — will be in a well-insulated cabin.

Princess Back In London For Possible Showdown

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret, her cheeks flushed, flew back from Germany Sunday and rushed off to see the Queen at Windsor Castle.

Some British press reports say Elizabeth II and her younger sister appear ready for a family showdown over Margaret's tete-a-tete last week with Group Capt. Peter Townsend while the Queen was in Holland.

Townsend went into a self-imposed exile for 2½ years after Margaret put faith and country above romance and announced in October 1955 "I have decided not to marry him."

The young princess is a devout Anglican and the Church of England frowns on divorced persons remarrying. Townsend had two children by his former wife who has since remarried.

Margaret's pale complexion accented red flushes high on her cheeks as she stepped out of the royal Viking on reaching London Airport.

She shook hands with the airport commandant and then climbed into a big limousine that had been driven right up to the airliner — away from the crowd of photographers and newsmen. She smiled faintly as she sped away.

The 27-year-old princess was in a devil-may-care mood dancing into the early hours of the morning with aristocratic young officers of a British cavalry regiment in Muenster, West Germany. She was winding up a two-day official visit.

She seemed more subdued on reaching London where big black front-page headlines in the mass-circulation tabloid Sunday Pictorial read: "Royal Bombshell: Princess Margaret 'On the Carpet' Tonight."

Another newspaper, The People, said Margaret was "now putting into operation a long-term plan to bring Peter Townsend back to Britain so that he can serve as her faithful friend and unofficial counsellor."

Princess Back In London For Possible Showdown

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret, her cheeks flushed, flew back from Germany Sunday and rushed off to see the Queen at Windsor Castle.

Some British press reports say Elizabeth II and her younger sister appear ready for a family showdown over Margaret's tete-a-tete last week with Group Capt. Peter Townsend while the Queen was in Holland.

Townsend went into a self-imposed exile for 2½ years after Margaret put faith and country above romance and announced in October 1955 "I have decided not to marry him."

The young princess is a devout Anglican and the Church of England frowns on divorced persons remarrying. Townsend had two children by his former wife who has since remarried.

Margaret's pale complexion accented red flushes high on her cheeks as she stepped out of the royal Viking on reaching London Airport.

She shook hands with the airport commandant and then climbed into a big limousine that had been driven right up to the airliner — away from the crowd of photographers and newsmen. She smiled faintly as she sped away.

The 27-year-old princess was in a devil-may-care mood dancing into the early hours of the morning with aristocratic young officers of a British cavalry regiment in Muenster, West Germany. She was winding up a two-day official visit.

She seemed more subdued on reaching London where big black front-page headlines in the mass-circulation tabloid Sunday Pictorial read: "Royal Bombshell: Princess Margaret 'On the Carpet' Tonight."

Another newspaper, The People, said Margaret was "now putting into operation a long-term plan to bring Peter Townsend back to Britain so that he can serve as her faithful friend and unofficial counsellor."

Baltimore Utility Reports On Snowstorm Troubles

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. explained Sunday about the rough time it had with the March 19-20 snowstorm that crippled Central Maryland for days.

It did so in "A Report to our Customers" outlined in a newspaper advertisement.

The utility, whose system covers a 2,300 square mile area, said that electric distribution wires at 7,000 locations and 1,100 of its poles were snapped by the wet-clinging fall that measured up to 2 feet in places.

In addition, there were 14,000 house loops down and "more than 150,000 of our customers were without electric current."

Of the G&E's 144 substations, 67 were cut off by damage to high voltage transmission lines.

The company said it had a total of 2,849 men out in the repair effort, 1,468 of whom were electrical contractors in the area or utility men from North Carolina, Virginia, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

The report said, "The magnitude of our job is pretty well indicated by the fact that our augmented forces, in one week's time, working night and day, a good part of the time in driving rain, with snow and mud underfoot, not only set 1,100 new poles but installed 378 miles of new wire—enough to reach to New York City and back."

The Gas and Electric Co. said it also tried to alleviate distress of those without power for their freezers by distributing 336,000 pounds of dry ice. This was handed out in several cities in 10 pound blocks.

Closing on an apologetic note to the many customers who were inconvienced, the company added, "We did everything humanly possible without regard to the costs involved."

Just what those costs will run to the company did not say. But earlier it had indicated damages would be in excess of one million dollars.

Boy Who Grabbed Power Line Dies

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Last week's snowstorm in Maryland claimed another life Sunday.

Four-year-old Tommy Clark of Stevensville, Queen Annes County, was playing in the snow in his back yard Friday afternoon when he grabbed an electrical wire sagging from the snow.

The boy died in Memorial Hospital here. He had been in critical condition since the accident, suffering from shock and first and second degree burns over most of his body.

Calls At Palace

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser's palace was the first port of call for a Russian Bolshoi Ballet troupe here for a two-week engagement in Cairo's opera house.

Demo Aspirants Urge Break For Older Workers

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two Senate candidates for the Democratic nomination have suggested that more consideration be given to middle aged and older workers in matters of employment and social security.

George P. Mahoney said that the $1,200 a year limit on earnings of persons receiving social security pensions is "unrealistically low."

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro declared that employers should not discriminate against middle age persons, some of whom even at the age of 35 are being told they're too old to apply for a job.

Another weekend statement was issued by a third U. S. Senate candidate on the Democratic slate. Dr. Clarence D. Long accused D'Alesandro and his "political cronies" of trying to undermine the independence and integrity of Baltimore City's judiciary.

D'Alesandro's comment on employment was one of 15 points in a campaign platform he released.

Other things the mayor is backing include extension of the reciprocal trade program and adequate foreign aid, a ban on pay television, federal aid to education at all levels, a large public works program and an increase in farm income.

Mahoney suggested that the $1,200 ceiling on earnings of persons who have social security should be increased or eliminated.

He pointed out that a retired person receiving $100,000 a year from investments, interest or dividends could continue to draw social security.

"But," he added, "a fellow who has to go out to supplement his meager pension with a little outside work runs the risk of losing his pension when his earnings reach $1,200."

Long said D'Alesandro was trying to undetermine the city's judiciary by backing two "spoils candidates" and opposing the two sitting judges of the Supreme Bench and Orphan's Court who are running for reelection.

Long also cited what he said were five examples of D'Alesandro's "complete indifference to the unemployment and poverty of the little guy in Baltimore."

"The only guy he is for," said Long, "is a 200-pound guy named Thomas D'Alesandro."

Small Fry Slug It Out At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—More than 100 boxers battled for honors here Sunday, then promptly broke training with a feast of ice cream, cookies and milk.

The proud fighters were the "diaper dandies" who participated in the 39th annual Navy Junior Boxing Tournament.

A total of 116 small fry sluggers worked up appetites in 58 bouts. All sons of Naval Academy officers and employes, they ranged in age from 5 to 15 and in weight from 33 to 118 pounds.

There were several knockdowns and a few tears, but all scrapping was forgotten when the pinweights received Navy medals and plunged into 30 gallons of ice cream and other goodies.

Serving as timekeeper for the two-round battles was Spike Webb, Navy's famed boxing coach who retired in 1954. Webb started all this 39 years ago and still keeps an eye on the midget maulers who are now trained by Tony Rubino.

Webb singled out 10-year-old Slade Cutter Jr. as "a chip off the old block." Capt. Cutter, academy athletic director, was the heavyweight for Webb on Navy's boxing teams in 1934-35.

Cutter and the other proud poppas served as seconds for their sons while anxious mammas watched with mixed emotions from the bleachers.

One mother, Mrs. H. L. Beckington, served as a second for her two sons, as she substituted for her husband, a Marine major on duty elsewhere.

The program was the climax of six weeks of boxing classes by Rubino. The junior bouts have grown each year in popularity with newsreel and television audiences, and they are a big family event at the academy.

There was little defense shown in any of the bouts as all the fighters seemed to be from the slugging school. The length of each round depended more or less on how the fighters were protecting themselves — and holding up their trunks.

The parents got more excited than the kids, who started lining up for ice cream long before the bouts were over. One mother was pleading for her son to "come on Mike" for most of one round before she realized both fighters were named Mike.

The kids volunteer for the boxing classes through which the Navy seeks to instill in them a spirit of competition and sportsmanship. Both were much in evidence today.

$10,000 Damage Caused By Fire In Hoist House

BARTON — Two men were critically burned and injured, and five other men and their foreman escaped injury in an explosion and fire at the mouth of Mine No. 3 of the Gary Coal Company here Saturday morning.

Harry N. DeShong Jr., 38, of RFD No. 1, Westernport and Joseph Symons, 40, also of RFD No. 1, Westernport, are in Miners Hospital, Frostburg in a critical condition. Hospital attaches said the men were burned beyond recognition and their clothing had been consumed.

Mine inspectors and firemen said that the two men were using an acetylene welding torch and equipment in the hoist building about 10 feet from the mouth of the mine and about 350 feet up a steep incline.

Five men, working in the mine about 3,500 feet in the hillside, were led to safety, and the foreman crawled through a pall of smoke to reach the outside.

Frank Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines who went to the scene estimated damage in excess of $10,000.

Officials said the blast set fire to oil and gasoline in the hoist building and the blaze ignited the clothing of the two injured men. Symons is not an employe of the coal company but had taken a coal stove grate to the mine to have his friend DeShong weld it for him. Symons was helping DeShong with the welding job when the explosion occurred about 9:30 a. m.

Dwight DeShong, son of Harry DeShong Jr., who was working nearby notified the Barton Fire Company which responded immediately with 35 men. Ambulances were summoned from Frostburg and Lonaconing and state police from Lonaconing and the LaVale State Police Barracks also went to the scene.

Rescue Team On Hand

The Maryland Mine Rescue team from Kitzmiller made the trip to Barton in 50 minutes and helped in the fire-fighting, rescue and inspection of premises. The rescue team includes Carl A. Schell, captain; Kenneth Bray, Chester Evans, Jesse Reel, Haven Chapman, Woodrow Sharpless, Harry B. Buckley and Richard Sherwood.

As the fire from the explosion spread, smoke from the burning building spread into the mine. Edward Ross, 41, of Barton, foreman of the mine came upon the heavy suffocating pall of smoke about 300 feet from the mine entrance as he was enroute to the outside. Ross crawled on his hands and knees to the entrance as the smoke hung about a foot from the floor of the mine.

Ross and James Close, state mine inspector then entered the mine through the fan shaft in an effort to reach the five men working inside. Barton firemen donned their masks and tried to enter the mine through the main heading, but were forced back because they could not see in the heavy, dense smoke.

Led To Safety

Ross and Close contacted the five miners and led them back through the mine entrance and safety, as the smoke had partially cleared away. Powers said the fan and ventilation system continued to function and kept the smoke from entering the mine more than 300 or 350 feet.

The miners who were rescued include John Johnson, Hill Street, Frostburg; Earl Kerns, Barton; Elmer Pifer, Eckhart; John Fairgrieve, Barton, and Groton Wiest, Scherr, W. Va. All escaped injury.

The mine foreman said only six men, besides himself were working Saturday, although the mine normally employs 12 men. The operation produces about 35 tons of coal daily. Ross resides only a few hundred feet from the mine.

As the word passed through the traditionally coal-minded Georges Creek Region that there had been a "mine explosion" hundreds of people drove to the scene. Traffic clogged the boulevard and area around the mine and state police directed traffic and parking. The call for assistance at Lonaconing and Frostburg coincided with a Conalrad Civil Defense alert on radio, and many people became alarmed and confused as police and ambulance sirens sounded through the town just as the Conalrad alert began.

Traffic Pattern Evolved For Frostburg Memorial Park By Town Officials

FROSTBURG—Following a recent meeting of William Sluss, police commissioner, Lloyd Truly, chief of police and Cliff Jeffries, director and manager of Frostburg Memorial Park, plans were devised to improve the flow of traffic through Memorial Park on such days as Memorial Day or others when large numbers of persons and cars visit the area.

According to Commissioner Sluss, the park committee has set aside a large area at the east side for parking and it is only here that parking will be permitted. All roads and lanes must be kept open. The main entrance to the grounds will be at the intersection of Green and Route 36 near Raymond Hanna's. The other two roads will be used as exits only, the one leaving through Grahamtown and the other entering on Route 36 at McFarland's garage.

Upon entering the park, cars will travel one way only on all roads, from the entrance towards either of the exits. No traffic will be permitted on small joining roads between main roads in the park.

According to the group which met, this plan will be put into operation immediately so that visitors may acquaint themselves with the rules before Memorial Day. Will Solons Drop Their Hot Potato?

It is reported that the McClellan Senate Committee, looking into labor-management abuses and excesses, will get back to the Teamsters Union soon. It might as well.

The committee has just concluded an investigative foray into the Kohler strike in Wisconsin. It is a four-year episode about which reams have been written. Management charges that the striking Auto Workers Union has used violence, illegal boycotts and other methods not countenanced by law.

The Senate committee has not had the appearance of a straightforward investigation into these charges. It has seemed, instead, to square off on ideological grounds. Members of the committee with a bias for unions, especially members whose political fate hangs on the labor vote, are tender about admitting evidence damaging to UAW.

Walter Reuther, the union's leader and himself a controversial figure, aggravates the ideological split of committee members. They seem to line up as pro-Reuther and anti-Reuther.

So the investigation, which promised much as an inquiry into extreme strike situations and what to do about them, turned into pretty much of a farce.

Perhaps this committee will look better when it returns to the Teamsters. Enough has been disclosed about them already to suggest remedial legislation. But it would have been far better to get to the bottom of the Kohler situation. It would have inspired more public confidence in the Congressional investigatory process.

Keeping Him Out Of The Bear Pit

Cocktail Party Chatter Foretold Russia's Ban On H-Bomb Testing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Dramatic backstage hints trickled out of Moscow last week regarding the banning of future H-bomb tests.

First came a cabled report from the American Embassy in Moscow regarding a cocktail party at which Nikita Khrushchev talked for an hour with the Swedish Ambassador about disarmament. He said Russia's new atomic tests had been so successful that Russia had enough atomic-hydrogen bombs to poison the entire world, and that Russia would now stop all further explosions.

Khrushchev appeared to be dead sober. He was not drinking.

He added gleefully that unilateral action by Russia in stopping H-bomb tests would put the United States on trial before the world for proceeding with its H-bomb tests in mid-Pacific this spring.

The Swedish Ambassador was so impressed by this conversation that he tipped off his fellow ambassadors and the American Embassy cabled the conversation to Washington. This was why President Eisenhower hastily announced at his press conference one day later that the United States would invite foreign observers to view the Pacific H-bomb tests, especially our "clean" bomb, which is not supposed to have dangerous radioactive fallout. Emphasis on the clean bomb was given in order to offset expected Russian emphasis on the poison spread from strontium 90, the most deadly aftermath from nuclear explosions.

Meanwhile, the American Embassy in Moscow kept up a steady bombardment of cables to Washington. It warned the State Department to be prepared for spectacular news developments in Russia. It also reported another cocktail conversation at which Khrushchev had told the Canadian Ambassador that all production of H-bombs should be stopped at once.

Both the United States and Russia, Khrushchev added, would then have twice as many bombs as are necessary to kill all the people in the world.

When this was cabled to Washington by the American Embassy in Moscow it inspired State Department advisers to suggest to Ike that he leave the door open for the ending of H-bomb tests even without banning H-bomb production. That was why Eisenhower dropped this hint at his press conference.

All this, cabled back to Washington, put the State Department and the White House literally in a state of diplomaic heebie-jeebies to see what peace move the Kremlin would make next.

Belated Victory

If Moscow really goes through with the banning of all nuclear weapons tests, regardless of the USA, it will be a big victory for three men who have taken a lot of punishment in the past. They are:

Harold Stassen — who has argued himself blue in the face to Eisenhower and Dulles that the Russians will sign a disarmament pact, but was fired for his pains and has now gone back to Pennsylvania.

Adlai Stevenson — who, during the 1956 presidential race, urged the end of H-bomb testing. He pointed out that we were accumulating enough deadly poisonous strontium 90 in the air to endanger the future health of the world, and that the USA should lead the way in banning these tests. Stevenson was promptly denounced by Eisenhower in a speech in which he said Stevenson's proposal could "lead only to confusion at home and misunderstanding abroad." Nixon denounced Adlai as proposing "catastrophic nonsense." Democratic leaders estimated that Adlai's proposal lost them several million votes.

Actually, Eisenhower had agreed at a National Security Council meeting in September, just before the Stevenson proposal, to explore a ban of H-bomb tests. But for political reasons he reversed himself.

Dr. Robert Oppenheimer—who was kicked out of government because he warned that the H-bomb might endanger human health and urged that the United States set an example to the world by banning it. For holding these views, he was purged by Adm. Lewis Strauss, head of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Note — Few close to Eisenhower will dare suggest it to him, but a lot of good Republicans are more and more convinced Ike should drop two men on whom he leans heavily — John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State and Admiral Strauss, head of Atomic Energy.

Mike Todd And Private Planes

Editor Walter L. Hart of the Morgantown, W. Va., Dominion News, who is something of an aviation expert, maintains that there's more risk from flying private planes than commercial airliners and that if Mike Todd hadn't been crossing the USA in his own private plane he wouldn't have come to his untimely death.

My own investigation at the Civil Aeronautics Authority bears this out.

Latest CAA figures show that airplane accidents in private airplanes are twice as great as those on commercial airliners. In 1956, 1,700 air carriers had 47 accidents, or about 3 per cent. But 28,000 private business or pleasure planes had 1,700 accidents, or 6 per cent.

What frequently happens is that the owner of the plane tells his pilot to fly even when the weather is bad or borderline. A commercial pilot has the final decision regarding a flight. Theoretically a private pilot does too. But when the boss urges him to fly regardless of weather he usually flies. Sometimes he gets through. Sometimes he doesn't.

Friends Urge Ike To Demand New Defense Setup

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Some of those who have the President's ear are urging him to take a course which would mean an all-out fight with extremely powerful forces on Capitol Hill and in the Pentagon. These men, who reportedly include White House Chief of Staff Sherman Adams and the President's old friend Alfred Gruenther, want him to demand a really fundamental recasting of the Defense Department set-up, carrying the issue to the country via television if necessary.

There is no doubt at all about how the President himself feels on the issue. He is deeply committed, publicly and privately, to a far-reaching Pentagon reorganization. And he is furious about the brilliant operation which the Navy has staged to head off the "prompt action" to "achieve real unity in the Defense Department" which the President promised in his January state of the union message.

The Navy, of course, which lives in deathly fear of domination by the Air Force, hates the very word "unification." The Navy has extremely powerful friends on Capitol Hill, like Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee and Styles Bridges, ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Vinson and Bridges(who has no special love for this fellow New Hampshirite, Sherman Adams) have introduced bills in both houses which are clearly intended to warn off the President from making good his state of the union promise.

The secret Gaither report, the Rockefeller report, and every other serious study of the Defense Department setup have agreed on one point—that the Secretary of Defense must be given real power commensurate with his responsibilities. Yet the Vinson-Bridges bills would curtail the Secretary's power over the three services even further, to approximately the level of King Lear's power over his three daughters .

Partly because "real unity in the Defense establishment" would reduce the power over the Pentagon of such Congressional committees as those named above, the Bridges-Vinson bills have plenty of bi-partisan support in both houses. In short, if he wants to have his way, the President is going to have to take on some of the most powerful and determined men in Congress, which he has always disliked doing. He will also probably have to take a stronger and more controversial stand than that reocmmended by his own Secretary of Defense, something he also dislikes doing.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy took his post wholly unprepared for the hideously difficult problem of defense reorganization which was instantly dumped into his lap. Since he took over, he has devoted not much less than half his time to the problem. He has attended, for example, virtually all the meetings of the body of experts he assigned to study the matter.

The group has been divided but the majority, including Gruenther, former Deputy Secretary of Defense William Foster, and Nelson Rockefeller, have favored the kind of really basic reorganization proposed in the Gaither and Rockefeller reports. Yet McElroy has been under heavy pressure from the Hill and the Navy, while the other two services have remained largely passive.

The usual Pentagon process of erosion-by-compromise has also been going on. To judge by reports emerging from a big Pentagon pow-wow held on Tuesday to draft recommendations to the President, these recommendations are likely to be pretty pallid, a mere scratching of the surface of the problem.

In short, the Navy and the other powerful forces fighting "real unity" in the Pentagon may have won the ball game already, even before the President sends to Congress the message on defense reorganization he has promised. But that outcome is not yet certain.

For it is obvious why some of those close to him want the President to demand and fight for really strong action. The issue makes an ideal battleground for the President, since it is an issue on which he can speak with unquestioned authority.

What is more, the spectacle of the President fighting hard for what he believes would do a lot to restore his tattered prestige. In this sense the issue far transcends in significance the matter of how our defenses are organized. For the course the President takes will tell a lot about his state of mind. As one of those most eager to see the President make a fight put it: "He's wobbled on so many things, if he wobbles on this one he's finished."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Go-Getters

Back in the early years of the 20th Century, in the days of Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, it used to be that a type of man was regarded favorably in the United States who was known to be a "go-getter." He was an active, aggressive, forceful personality who went out into the world to build a fortune and "to get somewhere." He depended upon no security but he made friends. Most often he made the right kind of marriage and he stuck to it.

These were terrifically hard-working people and if you want to know them, read Elbert Hubbard's "Little Journeys." Curiously few of them died of coronary occlusions, to use a frightening phrase, or from bleeding ulcers. They took work in their stride; ate big meals of heavy food; drank more beer than wine, and more whisky than gin. They smoked cigars instead of cigarets. They went out with their own wives and when they cheated, it was shamefacedly. Their children behaved at home and were afraid of the "old man."

I was minded of those days when I read a passage in Father James Gillis' "My Last Book":

". . . 'On this river,' says Alice in Wonderland, 'you have to row with all your might to remain where you are.' So, too, in the realm of the spiritual life. We are working our way upstream. We dare not dawdle. If we rest on our oars we shall go swiftly down. We are not on a placid lake in a wood sheltered from all but the gentlest zephyrs; we are working our way up against the rapids of a tumultuous river..."

If this sounds a bit like Chesterton, it is because Father Gillis could see his age in perspective. He knew that the world would not be saved by preaching at it but that one had patiently to wait until some event, some disillusionment or perhaps a miracle opened men's eyes to the frightening confusion into which we have thrown ourselves.

The scientists, whose business is learning, have begun to wonder whether education as we use the term is what in other ages used to be called learning or whether it is merely a device to keep young people out of mischief. At any rate, we have had plenty of costly education in the United States, for more than a century, and yet we are short of learned personnel. Everybody complains about that, the most recent ones being Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., Admiral Rickover, and Dr. Merle Tuve, surely men who have achieved extraordinary distinction in the world of the learned.

Some time ago, I was looking for a typist to assist a very busy young lady who has settled here permanently. So we examined a large number of young ladies all of whom had been to public school and high school and some to college. Each one of these young ladies had been in attendance at some school from 12 to 16 years, which is a very long time. But what could they have done there? One girl told me that she had attended the School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. This fascinated me, as there is no School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. Soon I had discovered that she had taken a class in art appreciation in a catch-all school for general studies which required no matriculation. But what had these girls learned?

Apparently, the scientists are bumping up against the same lack of preparation in the high schools. Dr. Killian said:

"If we are to have better science education, we must have better over-all education and if we are to have better education, we must have a shift in values so that intellectual interests and performance are not played down and socially denigrated. We must cultivate in all of our education a distaste for the take-it-easy and anti-intellectual attitudes and a positive taste for what is excellent in intellect and spirit."

If we are to develop the intellectual manpower to see us through this period of great changes, we surely must pay attention to this advice. While the ability to play basket ball may be a joy unto itself and stir the admiration of the gals, it will not send a Jupiter or a Vanguard through the skies or produce the practical wisdom required to pull us through a recession.

Old man Hertzberg didn't want to retire . . .

He arrived at 8:50 a. m. every day. He was small and slender and his back was hunched. He was an ancient Jew with a face out of the Bible. The mustache was long and silken and hung down over the chin. The head was thrust forward and down, like a vulture. Mr. Hertzberg had to raise his head to look at the world.

He was cashier at Lehman Brothers, bankers, 16 William Street. I was the summertime office boy, aged 15. I sat at a reception desk in blue jacket, blue knickerbockers, black stockings, black shoes. My function was to bring the cards of visitors to the desks of the partners. Nothing else.

Mr. Hertzberg nodded curtly at me every morning. Each time, I got to my feet and nodded back. There was no other traffic between us. He was very old. I was very young. Still, I saw much more of him than he thought. The cashier's cage faced my desk. Through the bars of his august cell, I watched this forbidding old man lose a fight.

He lost slowly and with dignity. But he lost. He wanted to remain in his post as cashier until God beckoned to him. But the Brothers Lehman wanted to retire him. Mr. Hertzberg had been an employe in the last quarter of the 19th Century, and he had been a part of making Lehman Brothers the big conservative firm it was.

In his time, he had known the fathers and uncles of the present partners. Now, they were all gone and Mr. Hertzberg was still trying to run the cashier's cage with a drawer full of scooped out saucers for half dollars, quarters, dimes, nickels and pennies. At lunch, the old man locked the drawer carefully, pulled the Elgin watch from his vest, studied it, slipped it back into the vest, and went to lunch.

While he was gone, Fred Ludy in the bond cage sometimes transferred $1,000,000 in bonds and Mr. Bertchy, the office manager, quite often borrowed $3,000,000 from the Corn Exchange Bank at 15 William Street, or repaid it. Mr. Bell, on the Cotton Exchange floor, bought or sold a half million in cotton futures while the old man sipped soup at the Exchange Buffet.

At 12:45, Mr. Hertzberg was back from lunch. He did not nod to me because he had already done that. The umbrella hung from his left arm, as it always did. The feet slid slowly across the tile floor, one after the other. In the cage, he hung the umbrella on the clothes tree, topped it with the old fedora, rubbed his hands like a pianist, and unlocked the little cash drawer.

The partners were always addressed by their first names. Mr. Phillip and Mr. Arthur had come out of their office and had asked Mr. Hertzberg to retire. The old man had studied them out of the tops of his eyes and said no. There was no speech. The thin lips had turned downward and he had said no. If he was retired, he would die.

Mr. Herbert tried. Later, he would be a Governor and a Senator. He knew how to persuade. He talked about retiring Mr. Hertzberg on full salary for life. Mr. Hertzberg said no. No one dared to tell the old man that he was trying to administer a multi-million dollar banking business with a three dollar and ninety-eight cent cash drawer. No one dared.

This was 1923. He stayed on long after I left. Everyone revered Mr. Hertzberg and he grew older and smaller and more hunched and the younger employes watched over him and the young secretaries mothered him. Whenever anyone hinted about retirement, the old man glared and said that he would die.

The end came at the dinner. The partners tendered a testimonial to the old man at the Ambassador. The employes of Lehman Brothers arrived in their best finery. The food was superb, the music dreamy, the lights soft, the camaraderie sincere. It was a surprise.

Mr. Hertzberg arrived in the battered hat, the umbrella on his arm. The partners—Mr. Phillip, Mr. Arthur, Mr. Herbert, Mr. Allen, Mr. Harold, Mr. Robert—escorted this wisp of the past to the dais. The applause was deafening. Everyone stood to honor Mr. Hertzberg. Eeveryone sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow" loudly.

When the old man's soup plate was taken away by a waiter, there was a slip of paper underneath. Mr. Hertzberg picked it up, polished his glasses carefully, and studied it. It was a check for $50,000, made out to him. He hung his head. On the ancient lids, tears shimmered. Mr. Hertzberg had lost his fight. He was through.

After that, he spent his days walking. He was crossing a street, head down, thinking, when a cab got him. Mr. Hertzberg never knew.

Mother's Health May Affect Child's Mentality

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The health of a pregnant woman may be reflected in her offspring. This is true if infection occurs or she needs iron or thyroid. A British physician believes illness and stress during pregnancy also affect the development of the child and his health during infancy

These conclusions were reached after comparing the answers given by the mothers of 102 retarded and 450 normal children concerning their mental and physical condition during pregnancy. Sixty-six per cent of the mothers of the retarded and 30 per cent of the mothers of the normal youngsters had been sick or harassed at some time during their pregnancy.

What kind of illnesses were encountered by the mothers of the retarded youngsters? None had German measles but 12 had toxemia of pregnancy. The others suffered from rheumatic fever, asthma, peptic ulcer, heart trouble, or other disease.

Emotional upsets occurred in 38: nine had matrimonial problems, seven a rift with relatives, and in 12 the husband or another child died or was injured or ill. There were seven instances of eviction threats, nine survived shocks or accidents including bombings, and 13 became so disturbed they were treated by psychiatrists.

Mental retardation occurred in the offspring and more than one-half showed signs of poor health during the early months of life. They were under par in many respects and seemed to lack resistance to the hazards of infancy. They failed to gain weight or were subject to nutritional or respiratory diseases; 15 per cent had congenital malformations.

Not all illnesses and shocks during pregnancy are followed by dire results. Other studies have revealed, for example that many women get sick during pregnancy but the majority have normal babies. It is difficult to explain this discrepancy except that the mothers of backward progeny search carefully into the gestation period to find a cause. If the baby is normal, they minimize or forget any distressing events that occurred during pregnancy.

METABOLIC RATES

R. F. writes: Is it possible to have a basal metabolic rating of plus 30 one week and minus 14 the next?

REPLY

Yest. High readings may be obtained when the individual is nervous or emotionally upset. Errors also creep in through technical difficulties in calculation. This is one of the reasons why many physicians prefer the use of radioactive materials to the metabolism test in determining thyroid activity.

PAIN ON DELIVERY

Mrs. W. writes: I'm pregnant and think about a lot of different things, some of which may be silly. One of these thoughts is: Does the baby suffer pain during delivery?

REPLY

This question has been answered both ways. Undoubtedly pain occurs in some instances and the lusty cry after birth may result from the painful compression the tot suffered. The sudden decompression encountered by the infant on emerging into the world has been likened to the sensations encountered by a man emerging from a caisson (the bends). All of this is speculation.

CHOLESTEROL

HANDEDNESS IN TWINS

W. S. writes: I know identical twins. One writes with the right hand and the other is a southpaw. I thought identical twins were alike in every way.

They are, as a rule. But in 30 to 40 per cent of these pairs, one twin is left handed.

BARREL CHEST

Enlargement of the chest in which the diameter from front to back approximates that from side to side. The condition usually is associated with emphysema, a lung disorder in which the air sacs are dilated.

DIFFERENT KINDS

C. T. writes: Can a person have kidney disease if he does not have albumin in the urine?

REPLY

Yes, in ordinary inflammation the urine may be loaded with pus cells but does not contain albumin.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Years ago, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, heard there was a young ball hawk patrolling center field for the Little Rock, Ark., baseball team who seemed ripe for a major league tryout. Furthermore, he was available for the sum of $400 (those were the days!) His name was Tris Speaker. And do you know why Dreyfuss passed up the chance to get one of the greatest ball players of all time virtually on a silver platter? He was told that the rookie smoked cigarets. "Nasty habit," grumbled Dreyfuss. "Don't want a young man like that on my team."

Another great star, Marty Marion, "Mr. Shortstop," was lost to the Washington Senators because one of the team's "farm clubs" in Chattanooga refused to give Marty's girl a free pass to the game!

On such trifles hinge pennants and world championships!

Will Solons Drop Their Hot Potato?

It is reported that the McClellan Senate Committee, looking into labor-management abuses and excesses, will get back to the Teamsters Union soon. It might as well.

The committee has just concluded an investigative foray into the Kohler strike in Wisconsin. It is a four-year episode about which reams have been written. Management charges that the striking Auto Workers Union has used violence, illegal boycotts and other methods not countenanced by law.

The Senate committee has not had the appearance of a straightforward investigation into these charges. It has seemed, instead, to square off on ideological grounds. Members of the committee with a bias for unions, especially members whose political fate hangs on the labor vote, are tender about admitting evidence damaging to UAW.

Walter Reuther, the union's leader and himself a controversial figure, aggravates the ideological split of committee members. They seem to line up as pro-Reuther and anti-Reuther.

So the investigation, which promised much as an inquiry into extreme strike situations and what to do about them, turned into pretty much of a farce.

Perhaps this committee will look better when it returns to the Teamsters. Enough has been disclosed about them already to suggest remedial legislation. But it would have been far better to get to the bottom of the Kohler situation. It would have inspired more public confidence in the Congressional investigatory process.

Keeping Him Out Of The Bear Pit

Cocktail Party Chatter Foretold Russia's Ban On H-Bomb Testing

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Dramatic backstage hints trickled out of Moscow last week regarding the banning of future H-bomb tests.

First came a cabled report from the American Embassy in Moscow regarding a cocktail party at which Nikita Khrushchev talked for an hour with the Swedish Ambassador about disarmament. He said Russia's new atomic tests had been so successful that Russia had enough atomic-hydrogen bombs to poison the entire world, and that Russia would now stop all further explosions.

Khrushchev appeared to be dead sober. He was not drinking.

He added gleefully that unilateral action by Russia in stopping H-bomb tests would put the United States on trial before the world for proceeding with its H-bomb tests in mid-Pacific this spring.

The Swedish Ambassador was so impressed by this conversation that he tipped off his fellow ambassadors and the American Embassy cabled the conversation to Washington. This was why President Eisenhower hastily announced at his press conference one day later that the United States would invite foreign observers to view the Pacific H-bomb tests, especially our "clean" bomb, which is not supposed to have dangerous radioactive fallout. Emphasis on the clean bomb was given in order to offset expected Russian emphasis on the poison spread from strontium 90, the most deadly aftermath from nuclear explosions.

Meanwhile, the American Embassy in Moscow kept up a steady bombardment of cables to Washington. It warned the State Department to be prepared for spectacular news developments in Russia. It also reported another cocktail conversation at which Khrushchev had told the Canadian Ambassador that all production of H-bombs should be stopped at once.

Both the United States and Russia, Khrushchev added, would then have twice as many bombs as are necessary to kill all the people in the world.

When this was cabled to Washington by the American Embassy in Moscow it inspired State Department advisers to suggest to Ike that he leave the door open for the ending of H-bomb tests even without banning H-bomb production. That was why Eisenhower dropped this hint at his press conference.

All this, cabled back to Washington, put the State Department and the White House literally in a state of diplomatic heebie-jeebies to see what peace move the Kremlin would make next.

Belated Victory

If Moscow really goes through with the banning of all nuclear weapons tests, regardless of the USA, it will be a big victory for three men who have taken a lot of punishment in the past. They are:

Harold Stassen — who has argued himself blue in the face to Eisenhower and Dulles that the Russians will sign a disarmament pact, but was fired for his pains and has now gone back to Pennsylvania.

Adlai Stevenson — who, during the 1956 presidential race, urged the end of H-bomb testing. He pointed out that we were accumulating enough deadly poisonous strontium 90 in the air to endanger the future health of the world, and that the USA should lead the way in banning these tests. Stevenson was promptly denounced by Eisenhower in a speech in which he said Stevenson's proposal could "lead only to confusion at home and misunderstanding abroad." Nixon denounced Adlai as proposing "catastrophic nonsense." Democratic leaders estimated that Adlai's proposal lost them several million votes.

Actually, Eisenhower had agreed at a National Security Council meeting in September, just before the Stevenson proposal, to explore a ban of H-bomb tests. But for political reasons he reversed himself.

Dr. Robert Oppenheimer—who was kicked out of government because he warned that the H-bomb might endanger human health and urged that the United States set an example to the world by banning it. For holding these views, he was purged by Adm. Lewis Strauss, head of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Note — Few close to Eisenhower will dare suggest it to him, but a lot of good Republicans are more and more convinced Ike should drop two men on whom he leans heavily — John Foster Dulles as Secretary of State and Admiral Strauss, head of Atomic Energy.

Mike Todd And Private Planes

Editor Walter L. Hart of the Morgantown, W. Va., Dominion News, who is something of an aviation expert, maintains that there's more risk from flying private planes than commercial airliners and that if Mike Todd hadn't been crossing the USA in his own private plane he wouldn't have come to his untimely death.

My own investigation at the Civil Aeronautics Authority bears this out.

Latest CAA figures show that airplane accidents in private airplanes are twice as great as those on commercial airliners. In 1956, 1,700 air carriers had 47 accidents, or about 3 per cent. But 28,000 private business or pleasure planes had 1,700 accidents, or 6 per cent.

What frequently happens is that the owner of the plane tells his pilot to fly even when the weather is bad or borderline. A commercial pilot has the final decision regarding a flight. Theoretically a private pilot does too. But when the boss urges him to fly regardless of weather he usually flies. Sometimes he gets through. Sometimes he doesn't.

Friends Urge Ike To Demand New Defense Setup

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

Some of those who have the President's ear are urging him to take a course which would mean an all-out fight with extremely powerful forces on Capitol Hill and in the Pentagon. These men, who reportedly include White House Chief of Staff Sherman Adams and the President's old friend Alfred Gruenther, want him to demand a really fundamental recasting of the Defense Department set-up, carrying the issue to the country via television if necessary.

There is no doubt at all about how the President himself feels on the issue. He is deeply committed, publicly and privately, to a far-reaching Pentagon reorganization. And he is furious about the brilliant operation which the Navy has staged to head off the "prompt action" to "achieve real unity in the Defense Department" which the President promised in his January state of the union message.

The Navy, of course, which lives in deathly fear of domination by the Air Force, hates the very word "unification." The Navy has extremely powerful friends on Capitol Hill, like Chairman Carl Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee and Styles Bridges, ranking Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Vinson and Bridges (who has no special love for this fellow New Hampshirite, Sherman Adams) have introduced bills in both houses which are clearly intended to warn off the President from making good his state of the union promise.

The secret Gaither report, the Rockefeller report, and every other serious study of the Defense Department setup have agreed on one point—that the Secretary of Defense must be given real power commensurate with his responsibilities. Yet the Vinson-Bridges bills would curtail the Secretary's power over the three services even further, to approximately the level of King Lear's power over his three daughters.

Partly because "real unity in the Defense establishment" would reduce the power over the Pentagon of such Congressional committees as those named above, the Bridges-Vinson bills have plenty of bi-partisan support in both houses. In short, if he wants to have his way, the President is going to have to take on some of the most powerful and determined men in Congress, which he has always disliked doing. He will also probably have to take a stronger and more controversial stand than that reocmmended by his own Secretary of Defense, something he also dislikes doing.

Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy took his post wholly unprepared for the hideously difficult problem of defense reorganization which was instantly dumped into his lap. Since he took over, he has devoted not much less than half his time to the problem. He has attended, for example, virtually all the meetings of the body of experts he assigned to study the matter.

The group has been divided but the majority, including Gruenther, former Deputy Secretary of Defense William Foster, and Nelson Rockefeller, have favored the kind of really basic reorganization proposed in the Gaither and Rockefeller reports. Yet McElroy has been under heavy pressure from the Hill and the Navy, while the other two services have remained largely passive.

The usual Pentagon process of erosion-by-compromise has also been going on. To judge by reports emerging from a big Pentagon pow-wow held on Tuesday to draft recommendations to the President, these recommendations are likely to be pretty pallid, a mere scratching of the surface of the problem.

In short, the Navy and the other powerful forces fighting "real unity" in the Pentagon may have won the ball game already, even before the President sends to Congress the message on defense reorganization he has promised. But that outcome is not yet certain.

For it is obvious why some of those close to him want the President to demand and fight for really strong action. The issue makes an ideal battleground for the President, since it is an issue on which he can speak with unquestioned authority.

What is more, the spectacle of the President fighting hard for what he believes would do a lot to restore his tattered prestige. In this sense the issue far transcends in significance the matter of how our defenses are organized. For the course the President takes will tell a lot about his state of mind. As one of those most eager to see the President make a fight put it: "He's wobbled on so many things, if he wobbles on this one he's finished."

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Go-Getters

Back in the early years of the 20th Century, in the days of Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, it used to be that a type of man was regarded favorably in the United States who was known to be a "go-getter." He was an active, aggressive, forceful personality who went out into the world to build a fortune and "to get somewhere." He depended upon no security but he made friends. Most often he made the right kind of marriage and he stuck to it.

These were terrifically hard-working people and if you want to know them, read Elbert Hubbard's "Little Journeys." Curiously few of them died of coronary occlusions, to use a frightening phrase, or from bleeding ulcers. They took work in their stride; ate big meals of heavy food; drank more beer than wine, and more whisky than gin. They smoked cigars instead of cigarets. They went out with their own wives and when they cheated, it was shamefacedly. Their children behaved at home and were afraid of the "old man."

I was minded of those days when I read a passage in Father James Gillis' "My Last Book":

". . . 'On this river,' says Alice in Wonderland, 'you have to row with all your might to remain where you are.' So, too, in the realm of the spiritual life. We are working our way upstream. We dare not dawdle. If we rest on our oars we shall go swiftly down. We are not on a placid lake in a wood sheltered from all but the gentlest zephyrs; we are working our way up against the rapids of a tumultuous river..."

If this sounds a bit like Chesterton, it is because Father Gillis could see his age in perspective. He knew that the world would not be saved by preaching at it but that one had patiently to wait until some event, some disillusionment or perhaps a miracle opened men's eyes to the frightening confusion into which we have thrown ourselves.

The scientists, whose business is learning, have begun to wonder whether education as we use the term is what in other ages used to be called learning or whether it is merely a device to keep young people out of mischief. At any rate, we have had plenty of costly education in the United States, for more than a century, and yet we are short of learned personnel. Everybody complains about that, the most recent ones being Dr. James R. Killian, Jr., Admiral Rickover, and Dr. Merle Tuve, surely men who have achieved extraordinary distinction in the world of the learned.

Some time ago, I was looking for a typist to assist a very busy young lady who has settled here permanently. So we examined a large number of young ladies all of whom had been to public school and high school and some to college. Each one of these young ladies had been in attendance at some school from 12 to 16 years, which is a very long time. But what could they have done there? One girl told me that she had attended the School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. This fascinated me, as there is no School of Fine Arts at Columbia University. Soon I had discovered that she had taken a class in art appreciation in a catch-all school for general studies which required no matriculation. But what had these girls learned?

Apparently, the scientists are bumping up against the same lack of preparation in the high schools. Dr. Killian said:

"If we are to have better science education, we must have better over-all education and if we are to have better education, we must have a shift in values so that intellectual interests and performance are not played down and socially denigrated. We must cultivate in all of our education a distaste for the take-it-easy and anti-intellectual attitudes and a positive taste for what is excellent in intellect and spirit."

If we are to develop the intellectual manpower to see us through this period of great changes, we surely must pay attention to this advice. While the ability to play basket ball may be a joy unto itself and stir the admiration of the gals, it will not send a Jupiter or a Vanguard through the skies or produce the practical wisdom required to pull us through a recession.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Years ago, Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburgh Pirates, heard there was a young ball hawk patrolling center field for the Little Rock, Ark., baseball team who seemed ripe for a major league tryout. Furthermore, he was available for the sum of $400 (those were the days!) His name was Tris Speaker. And do you know why Dreyfuss passed up the chance to get one of the greatest ball players of all time virtually on a silver platter? He was told that the rookie smoked cigarets. "Nasty habit," grumbled Dreyfuss. "Don't want a young man like that on my team."

Another great star, Marty Marion, "Mr. Shortstop," was lost to the Washington Senators because one of the team's "farm clubs" in Chattanooga refused to give Marty's girl a free pass to the game!

On such trifles hinge pennants and world championships!

Heard about the Texas dog who bought his own mailman to bite?

Gus Triandos Hits .300 In Spring Games

Hopes This Is Good Omen For '58 Season

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Baltimore's hefty catcher Gus Triandos, who has led the club in home runs the past two seasons, points to this spring as the best he's ever had.

"I'm usually hitting about .100 at this time and now it's above .300," he declares. "I hope that's a good omen for the season."

Despite the club record of 21 last year and his record of batting in 88 runs two years ago and 72 in 1957, Manager Paul Richards sees the greatest Triandos value on defense.

Valuable On Defense

"He has one of the best throwing arms in baseball," says Richards, a former receiver himself. "He works the pitchers well and in our big park there is a premium on pitching and defense."

Triandos declares, "I'm no authority on hitting, I wish I were." So he took a tip from the advice of Ted Williams who says a hitter should use a bat he can handle.

Despite his 215 pounds, Triandos swings a 33-ounce, or relatively light bat.

"I can wait longer for the ball and get a fast swing. If the bat is too heavy, you get a swing started and you just can't stop it," he explains.

Modifications in Baltimore's home park for the coming season should act to the advantage of Triandos and could increase his home run production. The distances to the barriers in right center and left center are being cut down from 410 to 385 feet—still a long way for a ball to travel.

The catcher, a native of San Francisco who now lives in Baltimore, expects the Orioles to be tougher this year than last.

Orioles Improved

"The pitching looks good and Larry Doby gives us the power we needed," explains the fellow whom the Orioles acquired as part of their deal with the Yankees in 1955 that sent pitchers Don Larsen and Bob Turley to New York. And comparing this team with the Orioles at the time he joined them, big Gus exclaims:

"There is tremendous improvement. This club has been rebuilt completely and is far better."

Schmidt May Start Season With Giants

Rookie Receiver Impresses Rigney

By JAMES K. McGEE

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30 (INS)—When Bob Schmidt came to the Giants' camp this spring, he brought two new catcher's mitts with him, planning to use them. His confidence hasn't been misplaced.

Today, Big Bob, who has never caught a major league game, is the ranking backstop.

Barring a sudden deal for Yogi Berra, or some other act of God, Schmidt will be behind the plate on opening day at Seals Stadium in San Francisco.

Makes Strong Comeback

The 24-year-old blond giant from St. Louis has made a strong comeback.

"Last year," he said, "it looked at this time or a little later that I was going to make the big leagues.

"Then, chasing a little pop fly in a game at Las Vegas, I fell on my right shoulder and tore some ligaments.

"I saw New York all right, but it was just as a tourist and not as a player. I went along for the ride on the train after what happened at Vegas."

When the shoulder healed he convalesced at Minneapolis. A vigorous recuperation it was. He hit 17 homers.

As for the two gloves, Wes Westrum, now a coach and the man whom Schmidt will replace, figures the big youngster might wear out three.

"He can catch a lot," said Westrum. "He's strong and durable."

Schmidt is rangy, 195 pounds spread proportionately over a 6-2 frame.

He hit .261 at Minneapolis but Manager Bill Rigney is not worried about his hitting.

Hits Long Ball

"He can give us power and the long ball in the lower part of the lineup," the Giants' pilot explained, adding:

"Im not concerned about how he'll hit. What I've been watching this spring is how he handles himself behind the plate. He has improved a lot.

"I sit there and watch what pitches he calls. Situations arise where everybody in the park is expecting a curve ball. Schmidt calls for the fast one. I like that."

Despite his comparative inexperience, Schmidt has shown the take charge attitude that his manager and coaches want. He is not afraid to call the pitches for such campaign-wise hurlers as Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez.

Sentinels Top LaSalle, Take Bowling Title

Win 6-Game Rolloff By Total 118 Pins

Fort Hill High School dethroned LaSalle High School as champions of the Bi-State Interscholastic Bowling League by defeating the Explorers by the margin of 118 pins in a six-game rolloff yesterday on the Savoy and Diamond alleys.

LaSalle's defending champions had won the first half title and Fort Hill copped second half honors this season, necessitating yesterday's rolloff.

The Explorers won four of the six games but Fort Hill won the match by spilling 4,377 pins to LaSalle's 4,259.

Tim Felten of LaSalle turned in high set of 964 by toppling 176, 153, 140, 176, 132 and 187 maplies in the six games. Bill Fleckenstein of LaSalle posted a 194 for high game.

Rodney Smith sparked Fort Hill with a six-game total of 866—144, 188, 138, 105, 125 and 166. His 188 was high for a single game for the newly crowned champions.

Members of Fort Hill's championship team are John Goss, Jim Lewis, Melvin Boone, Rodney Smith, Mike Holcomb, Donnie Appold, Ed. Dawson and Robert Robinette.

Wertz Suffers Ankle Fracture While Sliding

Tribe Loses First Baseman Ten Weeks

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland's Wertz suffered a fractured ankle Sunday sliding into second base during an exhibition game with the San Francisco Giants.

W. R. Manning of Tucson, estimated that the 33-year-old star, who came back two years ago after suffering a polio attack, will be out of action at least nine or 10 weeks.

The injury came as a blow to the Indians since the 200-pound infielder was second in runs-batted-in among the American League hitters last season and only last Tuesday was elected field captain for the coming season.

In the third inning of today's game he reached first on a walk. When Fred Hatfield bounced to second baseman Daryl Spencer, Wertz slid in, successfully breaking up a double play, but his cleats caught in the dirt. He was carried from the field with the injury, first diagnosed as a dislocation. But X-rays were ordered to determine if there were a fracture.

Dr. Manning said the films showed a fracture of the fibula at the ankle.

Wertz batted .282 for the Indians last year, including 28 home runs and 105 runs-batted-in. Only Roy Sievers of Washington with 114 had more RBI's.

Burdette Beat Bucs Nine Straight Times

Figitin' Lew Burdette is a cinch to face the Pirates in the 1958 season's opening series at Milwaukee on April 15 or 17. Lew, the man with the agitator action, has "licked" the Pirates nine consecutive times going back through the 1954 season. The last time the Pirates beat Burdette was in the first game of a Sunday doubleheader at Forbes Field on June 20, 1954, and they had to go 10 innings to do it, 2-1. The winning Buc hurler was Max Surkont and only two members of the present Pirates were in the line-up that day—Gair Allie at short and Frank Thomas in left. Burdette beat the Buccos later in '54, had no decisions in '55, and was 3-0 in '56 and 5-0 in '57 against Pittsburgh.

Calumet Has Derby Threat In Tim Tam

Son Of Tom Fool Cops Florida Derby

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Notice to Kentucky Derby hopefuls and their followers:

Calumet Farm is coming out of Florida with another strong threat to make it two in a row at Louisville in May.

The powerful racing stable owned by Mrs. Gene Markey of Lexington, Ky., and trained by Jimmy Jones, won the Derby last year with Iron Liege and has a colt equally as promising in Tim Tam.

Wins Florida Derby

The dark bay son of Tom Fool and Two Lea added the Florida Derby to his list of stakes victories at Gulfstream Park Saturday, whipping Lincoln Road and nine other good 3-year-olds in the mile and an eighth run.

Others in the race, in the order of finish, were Grey Monarch, Belleau Chief, Martins Rullah, Sir Robby, Sir Ruler, Li'l Fella, Whitley, Day Court and Yemen.

Tim Tam's time of 1:49 1-5 was far off the Florida Derby record of 1:46 4-5 set by Calumet's Gen. Duke last year but was third fastest of the stakes and only three-fifths of a second slower than Needles' time in 1956.

"Tim Tam is on the improve all the time," Jones said after the race, but he added, "I still wouldn't want to make any comparisons with other horses we've had."

Earlier this winter, Tim Tam won the Everglades Stakes, took the Flamingo when Jewel's Reward was disqualified, and annexed the Fountain of Youth.

Win Worth $77,900

His Florida Derby victory was worth $77,900 net to Mrs. Markey and boosted Tim Tam's winnings to $216,950, all but $275 of it during his stay in Florida. He started only once as a 2-year-old.

Gulfstream moves into the second half of its 43-day meeting Monday, featuring the $10,000 added Singing Tower Stakes on Wednesday and the $15,000 added Fort Lauderdale Handicap on Saturday.

Horsing Around

ROOSEVELT, Utah (AP) — Distance runner Al Ray, who lost in an attempt to prove himself better than a horse, plans to try again July 22.

Ray, a senior at Brigham Young University from St. Albans, N. Y., was forced out of a planned 158-mile race last year after trailing the animals 98 miles. Swollen ankles forced him to give up.

This year, he plans to have his ankles taped.

Announcement was made yesterday that the automobile racing season will get under way at the Potomac Valley Speedway, Fort Ashby, on Sunday, May 4.

The management is looking forward to its biggest season yet for the track due to the new rules which allow faster cars with bigger engines to compete.

The track this year is not affiliated with any club and cars from all areas will be allowed to compete without any extra assessment.

Persons desiring information about the rules for 1958 are requested to call Fort Ashby 2441.

Orioles Send Burke To Knoxville Club

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 30 (INS)—Leo Burke, an outfielder who also plays third base, was sent by the Baltimore Orioles today to their Thomasville, Ga., minor league base for assignment to Knoxville of the Sally League.

The 24-year-old former Virginia Polytechnic Institute athlete participated in 97 games last year for Knoxville after being used in 22 games for San Antonio of the Texas League. He hit only .192 for Knoxville and .178 for San Antonio.

Jones' Condition Is Satisfactory

ATLANTA, March 30—(INS)—Bobby Jones, famed, former golfing star, who is in an Atlanta Hospital for treatment of a heart ailment, was described as "in satisfactory condition" today by an official.

An Emory Hospital spokesman said:

"Bobby is up and around in his room and is in good spirits."

Jones was admitted to the hospital early Saturday, following what his physician, Dr. Tommy Atkins, called "a circulatory lapse."

Jones, who won all four major golf tournaments—the British and U.S. amateurs and opens—in 1930, has been bothered for the past ten years by a spinal ailment which has forced him to use a cane.

Coach Can't Win

GLENFORD, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Don Rushing can blame her husband for a lack of baby sitters. His Glenford High School basketbell teams have been so successful that almost all eligible baby sitters in the community (population: 175) are avid basketball fans.

As a result, Mrs. Rushing says, she hasn't been able to see her husband's teams in action as often as she'd like.

Gets Draft Call

Roberto "Arriba" Clemente, Pirates' flashy Puerto Rican flychaser, has received notice from his draft board to report for his physical exam on April 15, which is Opening Day. Clemente hopes to be exempted on a dependency claim—he's the sole support of his mother, father and two brothers.

Joey Jay, No Longer Sleepy, Holds Braves' High Hopes

BRADENTON, Fla.—When Joey Jay first came up to the Braves as a raw rookie with a $40,000 bonus check in his pocket, he was guilty of two "rocks" which taught him a lesson.

One day in Cincinnati Joey sleepily scanned the Braves schedule and noted a night game. So Joey went to an afternoon movie. When he came out, he was much chagrined to find out that the Braves and Redlegs had already played — an afternoon game.

Later, Joey was returning to the Braves' hotel in New York from a game in Ebbets Field. Joey fell asleep on the bus and when the bus arrived at the hotel, the rest of the players just let him sleep. He awoke, sometime later, to enter the hotel feeling like two cents, not 40,000 bucks.

Joey is alert today. He was last year, too, when he compiled a 17-10 record with the Wichita club, the third time he has been sent out. Now he's in the Braves' camp here, one of the most promising of the young players and expected to stick.

Manager Fred Haney says he likes Jay "a lot." "And, said Haney, "I think he's finally grown up." Jay, now 22 and in pro ball since 1953, also has grown up in business, too.

Joey, with his father, owns a 10-acre farm at Lutz, Fla., near here, and they have 5,000 chickens and a large orange grove. Joey spends his winters on the farm, helping his dad run the place.

Joey almost signed with Pittsburgh when the Pirates offered him $10,000 plus a chance to pitch every fourth day. However, the Braves' topped that, he thought, when they offered him $40,000 as a bonus for signing.

He signed to play pro ball in 1953 and that season, and the next he stayed with the parent club because they couldn't farm him out. He pitched little, had a 2-1 record and in 1955 the Braves dropped him off at Toledo where he had a 3-3 mark. He split the 1956 season with Wichita and Atlanta, winding up with 9-9.

Joey is a well-muscled 6-foot 4-inch giant, a righthander. He practices weight-lifting as a hobby. Married, he has one son.

Three Pennsylvania School Basketball Champions Crowned

Pennsylvania crowned high school basketball champions in Classes A, B and C over the weekend and the successful schools in that order were Haverford, Wampum and Williamsburg.

Haverford won the A crown Saturday night at Philadelphia by defeating Altoona High School's Mountain Lions, 67-45. Altoona had gained the finals by defeating Bedford, Charleroi and Erie Strong Vincent and entered Saturday's final with a 14-game winning streak. Haverford had won over Coatesville, Delhaas, Chester, Williamsport and York before topping Altoona in the championship game. It was Altoona's third shot at the state title. The Lions lost out in the finals to Lower Merion in 1933 and to Hazleton in 1938. Haverford was bidding for its first championship.

Williamsburg, runner-up for the state Class C crown for the past two years, made good this season by defeating Jenkintown, 49-45. The Blair countians finished the season with a 24-1 record and a 16-game winning streak.

Wampum defeated Columbia in the state Class B final, 82-64.

Jimmy Archer, Former Major Leaguer, Dies

MILWAUKEE, March 30 (INS)—Funeral services were being arranged today for Jimmy Archer, 74, former major league catcher, who played with the Chicago Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

Archer died Saturday night at St. Mary's Hospital in Milwaukee, following surgery for tuberculosis of the spine.

He was born in Ireland but spent his boyhood in Montreal where he learned how to play baseball.

Archer was one of the first catchers to throw from a squatting position and was feared by base runners because of his strong and accurate throwing arm.

He broke into the majors with Pittsburgh in 1904 and wound up his career with the Cubs in 1918.

In recent years, Archer was active in Catholic Youth Organization affairs. He is survived by his widow, the former Lillian Stark of Boone, Ia.

WVU Nine Makes Southern Junket

MORGANTOWN (AP) — West Virginia University cancelled its scheduled Tuesday baseball opener with West Virginia Wesleyan because of wet grounds and the weather outlook, Coach Steve Harrick said Sunday.

Harrick said the Mountaineers would leave Monday on a southern junket that will take them into Florida, with stops at Fort Lee, Va., and at Statesboro, Ga., along the way.

The WVU nine hopes to play the Fort Lee Army team in a practice game Tuesday and Georgia Teachers at Statesboro on Wednesday, weather permitting.

The Mountaineers will compete in the Florida State Invitational Tournament, April 4-10, at Tallahassee, Fla.

Hundley Scores 27

LOGAN (AP) — Rod Hundley scored 27 points Sunday as his band of former West Virginia University basketball greats edged the Logan All - Stars 85-83.

Players Named To Tour Russia

Six Peoria Champs Appear On Roster

DENVER, March 30 — (INS) — A 12- man cage squad of top-ranking American amateur basketball players was named today to tour Russia this spring.

The AAU picked six members of the Peoria Caterpillars of the National Industrial League to the star-studded team. Peoria won the National AAU Tournament last night 74-71 over the Denver-Chicago Truckers in four overtime periods.

The Cats' coach, Warren Womble, will be the team mentor for the trip behind the iron curtain.

Centers selected for the tour were Bert Born (6-9) of Peoria, Burdy Haldorson (6-8) of the Phillips 66 Oilers—voted the most valuable player of the AAU tourney — and Terry Rand (6-9) of the D-C Truckers.

Forwards were Jim Palmer (6-8), Chuck Wolfe (6-3), both of Peoria; Dick Boushka (6-5) of the Wichita Vickers; Harv Schmidt (6-6) of the D-C Truckers; and Bob Jeanerard (6-4) of the Air Force All-Stars.

Two brothers — Allen (6-0) and Dean (6-1) Kelley of Peoria — topped the roster of guards. Others were Howie Crittenden (6-1), also of Peoria, and Joe Dean (6-2) of the Phillips Oilers.

The squad will train in Peoria under Coach Womble between April 12 and April 20 when they leave for Russia. In the Soviet Union they will play two games each in Moscow (April 24-25), Leningrad (April 28-29), and Tbilisi (May 1-2). A Soviet cage team will visit the United States next winter for a return six-game tour.

Also being studied by the AAU committee is the possibility of holding two basketball clinics at the world's fair in Brussels and in Paris when the team returns from the Soviet Union.

Rejoins Former Boss

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Tom Berry, University of Virginia backfield coach, has been named to a similar post at the Air Force Academy. Berry, a native of Lynchburg, Va., served under Ben Martin, new head football coach at the AFA, while Martin was Virginia mentor.

Gus Triandos Hits .300 In Spring Games

Hopes This Is Good Omen For '58 Season

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Baltimore's hefty catcher Gus Triandos, who has led the club in home runs the past two seasons, points to this spring as the best he's ever had.

"I'm usually hitting about .100 at this time and now it's above .300," he declares. "I hope that's a good omen for the season."

Despite the club record of 21 last year and his record of batting in 88 runs two years ago and 72 in 1957, Manager Paul Richards sees the greatest Triandos value on defense.

Valuable On Defense

"He has one of the best throwing arms in baseball," says Richards, a former receiver himself. "He works the pitchers well and in our big park there is a premium on pitching and defense."

Triandos declares, "I'm no authority on hitting. I wish I were." So he took a tip from the advice of Ted Williams who says a hitter should use a bat he can handle.

Despite his 215 pounds, Triandos swings a 33-ounce, or relatively light bat.

"I can wait longer for the ball and get a fast swing. If the bat is too heavy, you get a swing started and you just can't stop it," he explains.

Modifications in Baltimore's home park for the coming season should act to the advantage of Triandos and could increase his home run production. The distances to the barriers in right center and left center are being cut down from 410 to 385 feet—still a long way for a ball to travel.

The catcher, a native of San Francisco who now lives in Baltimore, expects the Orioles to be tougher this year than last.

Orioles Improved

"The pitching looks good and Larry Doby gives us the power we needed," explains the fellow whom the Orioles acquired as part of their deal with the Yankees in 1955 that sent pitchers Don Larsen and Bob Turley to New York. And comparing this team with the Orioles at the time he joined them, big Gus exclaims:

"There is tremendous improvement. This club has been rebuilt completely and is far better."

Schmidt May Start Season With Giants

Rookie Receiver Impresses Rigney

By JAMES K. McGEE

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30 (INS)—When Bob Schmidt came to the Giants' camp this spring, he brought two new catcher's mitts with him, planning to use them. His confidence hasn't been misplaced.

Today, Big Bob, who has never caught a major league game, is the ranking backstop.

Barring a sudden deal for Yogi Berra, or some other act of God, Schmidt will be behind the plate on opening day at Seals Stadium in San Francisco.

Makes Strong Comeback

The 24-year-old blond giant from St. Louis has made a strong comeback.

"Last year," he said, "it looked at this time or a little later that I was going to make the big leagues.

"Then, chasing a little pop fly in a game at Las Vegas, I fell on my right shoulder and tore some ligaments.

"I saw New York all right, but it was just as a tourist and not as a player. I went along for the ride on the train after what happened at Vegas."

When the shoulder healed he convalesced at Minneapolis. A vigorous recuperation it was. He hit 17 homers.

As for the two gloves, Wes Westrum, now a coach and the man whom Schmidt will replace, figures the big youngster might wear out three.

"He can catch a lot," said Westrum. "He's strong and durable."

Schmidt is rangy, 195 pounds spread proportionately over a 6-2 frame.

He hit .261 at Minneapolis but Manager Bill Rigney is not worried about his hitting.

Hits Long Ball

"He can give us power and the long ball in the lower part of the lineup," the Giants' pilot explained, adding:

"Im not concerned about how he'll hit. What I've been watching this spring is how he handles himself behind the plate. He has improved a lot.

"I sit there and watch what pitches he calls. Situations arise where everybody in the park is expecting a curve ball. Schmidt calls for the fast one. I like that."

Despite his comparative inexperience, Schmidt has shown the take charge attitude that his manager and coaches want. He is not afraid to call the pitches for such campaign-wise hurlers as Johnny Antonelli and Ruben Gomez.

Sentinels Top LaSalle, Take Bowling Title

Win 6-Game Rolloff By Total 118 Pins

Fort Hill High School dethroned LaSalle High School as champions of the Bi-State Interscholastic Bowling League by defeating the Explorers by the margin of 118 pins in a six-game rolloff yesterday on the Savoy and Diamond alleys.

LaSalle's defending champions had won the first half title and Fort Hill copped second half honors this season, necessitating yesterday's rolloff.

The Explorers won four of the six games but Fort Hill won the match by spilling 4,377 pins to LaSalle's 4,259.

Tim Felten of LaSalle turned in high set of 964 by toppling 176, 153, 140, 176, 132 and 187 maplies in the six games. Bill Fleckenstein of LaSalle posted a 194 for high game.

Rodney Smith sparked Fort Hill with a six-game total of 866—144, 188, 138, 105, 125 and 166. His 188 was high for a single game for the newly crowned champions.

Members of Fort Hill's championship team are John Goss, Jim Lewis, Melvin Boone, Rodney Smith, Mike Holcomb, Donnie Appold, Ed. Dawson and Robert Robinette.

Wertz Suffers Ankle Fracture While Sliding

Tribe Loses First Baseman Ten Weeks

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Cleveland's Wertz suffered a fractured ankle Sunday sliding into second base during an exhibition game with the San Francisco Giants.

W. R. Manning of Tucson, estimated that the 33-year-old star, who came back two years ago after suffering a polio attack, will be out of action at least nine or 10 weeks.

The injury came as a blow to the Indians since the 200-pound infielder was second in runs-batted-in among the American League hitters last season and only last Tuesday was elected field captain for the coming season.

In the third inning of today's game he reached first on a walk. When Fred Hatfield bounced to second baseman Daryl Spencer, Wertz slid in, successfully breaking up a double play, but his cleats caught in the dirt. He was carried from the field with the injury, first diagnosed as a dislocation. But X-rays were ordered to determine if there were a fracture.

Dr. Manning said the films showed a fracture of the fibula at the ankle.

Wertz batted .282 for the Indians last year, including 28 home runs and 105 runs-batted-in. Only Roy Sievers of Washington with 114 had more RBI's.

Burdette Beat Bucs Nine Straight Times

Figitin' Lew Burdette is a cinch to face the Pirates in the 1958 season's opening series at Milwaukee on April 15 or 17. Lew, the man with the agitator action, has "licked" the Pirates nine consecutive times going back through the 1954 season. The last time the Pirates beat Burdette was in the first game of a Sunday doubleheader at Forbes Field on June 20, 1954, and they had to go 10 innings to do it, 2-1. The winning Buc hurler was Max Surkont and only two members of the present Pirates were in the line-up that day—Gair Allie at short and Frank Thomas in left. Burdette beat the Buccos later in '54, had no decisions in '55, and was 3-0 in '56 and 5-0 in '57 against Pittsburgh.

Calumet Has Derby Threat In Tim Tam

Son Of Tom Fool Cops Florida Derby

By GENE PLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Notice to Kentucky Derby hopefuls and their followers:

Calumet Farm is coming out of Florida with another strong threat to make it two in a row at Louisville in May.

The powerful racing stable owned by Mrs. Gene Markey of Lexington, Ky., and trained by Jimmy Jones, won the Derby last year with Iron Liege and has a colt equally as promising in Tim Tam.

Wins Florida Derby

The dark bay son of Tom Fool and Two Lea added the Florida Derby to his list of stakes victories at Gulfstream Park Saturday, whipping Lincoln Road and nine other good 3-year-olds in the mile and an eighth run.

Others in the race, in the order of finish, were Grey Monarch, Belleau Chief, Martins Rullah, Sir Robby, Sir Ruler, Li'l Fella, Whitley, Day Court and Yemen.

Tim Tam's time of 1:49 1-5 was far off the Florida Derby record of 1:46 4-5 set by Calumet's Gen. Duke last year but was third fastest of the stakes and only three-fifths of a second slower than Needles' time in 1956.

"Tim Tam is on the improve all the time," Jones said after the race, but he added, "I still wouldn't want to make any comparisons with other horses we've had."

Earlier this winter, Tim Tam won the Everglades Stakes, took the Flamingo when Jewel's Reward was disqualified, and annexed the Fountain of Youth.

Win Worth $77,900

His Florida Derby victory was worth $77,900 net to Mrs. Markey and boosted Tim Tam's winnings to $216,950, all but $275 of it during his stay in Florida. He started only once as a 2-year-old.

Gulfstream moves into the second half of its 43-day meeting Monday, featuring the $10,000 added Singing Tower Stakes on Wednesday and the $15,000 added Fort Lauderdale Handicap on Saturday.

Horsing Around

ROOSEVELT, Utah (AP) — Distance runner Al Ray, who lost in an attempt to prove himself better than a horse, plans to try again July 22.

Ray, a senior at Brigham Young University from St. Albans, N. Y., was forced out of a planned 158-mile race last year after trailing the animals 98 miles. Swollen ankles forced him to give up.

This year, he plans to have his ankles taped.

Persons desiring information about the rules for 1958 are requested to call Fort Ashby 2441.

Orioles Send Burke To Knoxville Club

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 30 (INS)—Leo Burke, an outfielder who also plays third base, was sent by the Baltimore Orioles today to their Thomasville, Ga., minor league base for assignment to Knoxville of the Sally League.

The 24-year-old former Virginia Polytechnic Institute athlete participated in 97 games last year for Knoxville after being used in 22 games for San Antonio of the Texas League. He hit only .192 for Knoxville and .178 for San Antonio.

Jones' Condition Is Satisfactory

ATLANTA, March 30—(INS)—Bobby Jones, famed, former golfing star, who is in an Atlanta Hospital for treatment of a heart ailment, was described as "in satisfactory condition" today by an official.

An Emory Hospital spokesman said:

"Bobby is up and around in his room and is in good spirits."

Jones was admitted to the hospital early Saturday, following what his physician, Dr. Tommy Atkins, called "a circulatory lapse."

Jones, who won all four major golf tournaments—the British and U.S. amateurs and opens—in 1930, has been bothered for the past ten years by a spinal ailment which has forced him to use a cane.

Coach Can't Win

GLENFORD, Ohio (AP) — Mrs. Don Rushing can blame her husband for a lack of baby sitters. His Glenford High School basketbell teams have been so successful that almost all eligible baby sitters in the community (population: 175) are avid basketball fans.

As a result, Mrs. Rushing says, she hasn't been able to see her husband's teams in action as often as she'd like.

Gets Draft Call

Roberto "Arriba" Clemente, Pirates' flashy Puerto Rican flychaser, has received notice from his draft board to report for his physical exam on April 15, which is Opening Day. Clemente hopes to be exempted on a dependency claim—he's the sole support of his mother, father and two brothers.

Joey Jay, No Longer Sleepy, Holds Braves' High Hopes

BRADENTON, Fla.—When Joey Jay first came up to the Braves as a raw rookie with a $40,000 bonus check in his pocket, he was guilty of two "rocks" which taught him a lesson.

One day in Cincinnati Joey sleepily scanned the Braves schedule and noted a night game. So Joey went to an afternoon movie. When he came out, he was much chagrined to find out that the Braves and Redlegs had already played — an afternoon game.

Later, Joey was returning to the Braves' hotel in New York from a game in Ebbets Field. Joey fell asleep on the bus and when the bus arrived at the hotel, the rest of the players just let him sleep. He awoke, sometime later, to enter the hotel feeling like two cents, not 40,000 bucks.

Joey is alert today. He was last year, too, when he compiled a 17-10 record with the Wichita club, the third time he has been sent out. Now he's in the Braves' camp here, one of the most promising of the young players and expected to stick.

Manager Fred Haney says he likes Jay "a lot." "And, said Haney, "I think he's finally grown up." Jay, now 22 and in pro ball since 1953, also has grown up in business, too.

Joey, with his father, owns a 10-acre farm at Lutz, Fla., near here, and they have 5,000 chickens and a large orange grove. Joey spends his winters on the farm, helping his dad run the place.

Joey almost signed with Pittsburgh when the Pirates offered him $10,000 plus a chance to pitch every fourth day. However, the Braves' topped that, he thought, when they offered him $40,000 as a bonus for signing.

He signed to play pro ball in 1953 and that season, and the next he stayed with the parent club because they couldn't farm him out. He pitched little, had a 2-1 record and in 1955 the Braves dropped him off at Toledo where he had a 3-3 mark. He split the 1956 season with Wichita and Atlanta, winding up with 9-9.

Joey is a well-muscled 6-foot 4-inch giant, a righthander. He practices weight-lifting as a hobby. Married, he has one son.

Jimmy Archer, Former Major Leaguer, Dies

MILWAUKEE, March 30 (INS)—Funeral services were being arranged today for Jimmy Archer, 74, former major league catcher, who played with the Chicago Cubs, the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

Archer died Saturday night at St. Mary's Hospital in Milwaukee, following surgery for tuberculosis of the spine.

He was born in Ireland but spent his boyhood in Montreal where he learned how to play baseball.

Archer was one of the first catchers to throw from a squatting position and was feared by base runners because of his strong and accurate throwing arm.

He broke into the majors with Pittsburgh in 1904 and wound up his career with the Cubs in 1918.

In recent years, Archer was active in Catholic Youth Organization affairs. He is survived by his widow, the former Lillian Stark of Boone, Ia.

Three Pennsylvania School Basketball Champions Crowned

Pennsylvania crowned high school basketball champions in Classes A, B and C over the weekend and the successful schools in that order were Haverford, Wampum and Williamsburg.

Haverford won the A crown Saturday night at Philadelphia by defeating Altoona High School's Mountain Lions, 67-45. Altoona had gained the finals by defeating Bedford, Charleroi and Erie Strong Vincent and entered Saturday's final with a 14-game winning streak. Haverford had won over Coatesville, Delhaas, Chester, Williamsport and York before topping Altoona in the championship game. It was Altoona's third shot at the state title. The Lions lost out in the finals to Lower Merion in 1933 and to Hazleton in 1938. Haverford was bidding for its first championship.

Williamsburg, runner-up for the state Class C crown for the past two years, made good this season by defeating Jenkintown, 49-45. The Blair countians finished the season with a 24-1 record and a 16-game winning streak.

Wampum defeated Columbia in the state Class B final, 82-64.

WVU Nine Makes Southern Junket

MORGANTOWN (AP) — West Virginia University cancelled its scheduled Tuesday baseball opener with West Virginia Wesleyan because of wet grounds and the weather outlook, Coach Steve Harrick said Sunday.

Harrick said the Mountaineers would leave Monday on a southern junket that will take them into Florida, with stops at Fort Lee, Va., and at Statesboro, Ga., along the way.

The WVU nine hopes to play the Fort Lee Army team in a practice game Tuesday and Georgia Teachers at Statesboro on Wednesday, weather permitting.

The Mountaineers will compete in the Florida State Invitational Tournament, April 4-10, at Tallahassee, Fla.

Hundley Scores 27

LOGAN (AP) — Rod Hundley scored 27 points Sunday as his band of former West Virginia University basketball greats edged the Logan All - Stars 85-83.

Clayce Kishbaugh contributed 26 points for the WVU stars, while Bob Burgess of Sharples was high man for the locals with 24. The visitors held a 53-40 halftime advantage.

Players Named To Tour Russia

Six Peoria Champs Appear On Roster

DENVER, March 30 — (INS) — A 12- man cage squad of top-ranking American amateur basketball players was named today to tour Russia this spring.

The AAU picked six members of the Peoria Caterpillars of the National Industrial League to the star-studded team. Peoria won the National AAU Tournament last night 74-71 over the Denver-Chicago Truckers in four overtime periods.

The Cats' coach, Warren Womble, will be the team mentor for the trip behind the iron curtain.

Centers selected for the tour were Bert Born (6-9) of Peoria, Burdy Haldorson (6-8) of the Phillips 66 Oilers—voted the most valuable player of the AAU tourney — and Terry Rand (6-9) of the D-C Truckers.

Forwards were Jim Palmer (6-8), Chuck Wolfe (6-3); both of Peoria; Dick Boushka (6-5) of the Wichita Vickers; Harv Schmidt (6-6) of the D-C Truckers; and Bob Jeanerard (6-4) of the Air Force All-Stars.

Two brothers — Allen (6-0) and Dean (6-1) Kelley of Peoria — topped the roster of guards. Others were Howie Crittenden (6-1), also of Peoria, and Joe Dean (6-2) of the Phillips Oilers.

The squad will train in Peoria under Coach Womble between April 12 and April 20 when they leave for Russia. In the Soviet Union they will play two games each in Moscow (April 24-25), Leningrad (April 28-29), and Tbilisi (May 1-2). A Soviet cage team will visit the United States next winter for a return six-game tour.

Also being studied by the AAU committee is the possibility of holding two basketball clinics at the world's fair in Brussels and in Paris when the team returns from the Soviet Union.

Rejoins Former Boss

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Tom Berry, University of Virginia backfield coach, has been named to a similar post at the Air Force Academy. Berry, a native of Lynchburg, Va., served under Ben Martin, new head football coach at the AFA, while Martin was Virginia mentor.

Boston Celtics Even NBA Title Series With St. Louis

Sad Sam Chalks Up 16 Points In 136-112 Contest

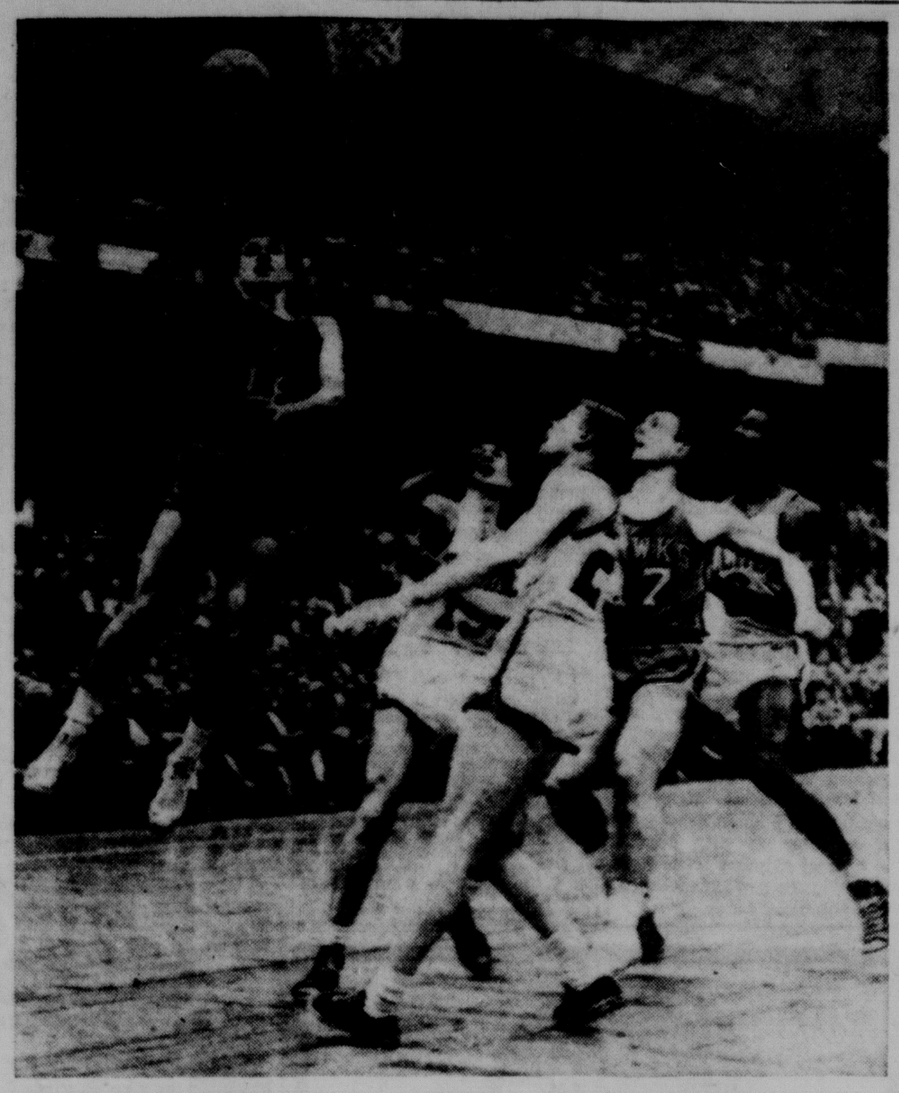
BOSTON (AP) — Boston regained its scoring touch with the help of unheralded Sad Sam Jones for a 136-112 victory over St. Louis Sunday that deadlocked their best of seven final National Basketball Assn. playoff series 1-1.

Though the victory was a strong team effort, Jones captured the imagination of the 10,249 Boston Garden customers for his part in evening the count in the series.

Jones who didn't even play in Saturday's 104-102 St. Louis triumph, dropped in 16 points, excelled on defense and brought the partisan throng to its feet with his rebounding and drive-in shots against taller opponents.

The Celtics also got 25 points from Bob Cousy, 22 each from Bill Sharman and Bill Russell and 20 from Frank Ramsey.

Cliff Hagan remained a troublesome thorn in Boston's side. Hagan tallied 37 points while Bob Pettit was limited to 19. Pesky Slater Martin also hit for 19 for St. Louis.



HAGAN JUST CAN'T BE STOPPED—Cliff Hagan (16), sharpshooter of the St. Louis Hawks, proves a troublesome thorn in the Boston Celtics' side as he hit for 37 points yesterday and 33 Saturday in their two games of the final playoff series at Boston. Hagan is shown circling around Celtics' Arnie Risen (19), Frank Ramsey (23) and Bill Russell (6) to score a one-hander in fourth period of Sunday's game. Med Parks of Hawks is other player shown. Boston's 136-112 victory deadlocked their best-of-seven final playoff series with St. Louis at 1-1.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Lehman walked Dale Long in the 12th inning to force in the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged the Baltimore Orioles 2-1 here Sunday.

The Cubs' other run was an unearned tally off Connie Johnson in the first.

Bobby Dams opened the Cubs' half of the 12th with a single. He advanced on Tony Taylor's single with one away. Lehman then struck out Lou Jackson but walked Bob Speake. He worked Long to a 3-2 count but lost him on a high inside pitch to force in the winning run.

Gus Triandos' double and Foster Castleman's single in the fourth accounted for the Orioles' only tally.

Bassey, Moreno Clash Tuesday In Title Bout

Calhoun, Pompey Meet Wednesday

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

A couple of little featherweights from Nigeria and Mexico fight for the world featherweight title in Los Angeles Tuesday night. The international title fight matches champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey, a clever boxer-puncher from Nigeria, and Mexico's slugging contender, Richard Pajarito Moreno.

This outdoor show in Wrigley Field is scheduled for 15 rounds but it will be a major upset if the fight goes the limit. Bassey, 25, is about a 2-1 choice over the 21-year old Mexican, in the first title defense.

The scrap won't be broadcast or telecast. That's tough for the fans around the country for the fight figures to be a real brawl.

The usual Monday, Wednesday and Friday bouts will be televised.

Fight At St. Nick

Monday night's feature at New York's St. Nicholas Arena matches a couple of welterweight prospects in a ten-rounder. They are Jimmy Peters (19-4-1) of Washington and Rudy Sawyer (14-1-1) of New York. Sawyer is trained by former featherweight champion Sandy Saddler. Dumont will telecast (10 p.m. EST).

Middleweight contender Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., and light heavyweight contender Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, collide Wednesday night (ABC TV, 10 p.m., EST) at Louisville. This shapes up as another slugfest. Calhoun has a 33-3-1 record, including 17 knockouts. Pompey's record is 33-4-3, including 24 kayos.

Gavilan To Face Jones

Former welterweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., clash Friday night (NBC radio-TV, 10 p.m., EST) at the Philadelphia Arena. This is their third and "rubber" meeting.

Gavilan's record is 105-29-6 including 28 kayos. Jones' record is 45-21-4. He has scored 11 kayos.

In another non-television fight, heavyweight contenders Nino Valdes of Cuba and Wayne Bethea of New York meet in a ten rounder at Denver Thursday night. Bethea, ranked sixth by Ring Magazine, subs for injured Harold Carter. Valdes is the No. 8 contender.

TIGERS AND INDIANS IN TRADE—The Detroit Tigers yesterday traded pitcher Pete Wojey, left, and a reported $20,000 for Cleveland pitcher Vito Valentinetti, center, and infielder Milt Bolling. Wojey, who had an 8-11 record with Tiger farm club at Charleston, W. Va., last year, is a righthander. Bolling joins his brother Frank, who plays second base for Detroit. Valentinetti is from The Bronx, New York.

Detroit And Cleveland Figure In Player Swap

Valentinetti, Milt Bolling Traded For Wojey And $20,000

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Sunday sent minor league pitcher Pete Wojey and a reported $20,000 to Cleveland for infielder Milt Bolling and pitcher Vito Valentinetti.

Tiger General Manager John McHale said Bolling would be used as a utility infielder. His brother, Frank, is Detroit's regular second baseman.

Bolling, 28, batted .227 with Boston and Washington last year before the Indians obtained him in a winter deal.

Valentinetti, a 29-year-old righthander, was 0-0 with the Chicago Cubs last year before he posted a 9-5 record with Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. He was sold to Cleveland late in the season, winning two games and losing two.

Wojey, 34, had an 8-11 record with the Tigers' Charleston, W.Va., farm club in the American Assn. last season. A righthander, he had several trials with the Dodgers before moving to the Detroit organization.

Giants Clout Five Homers

Collect 16 Hits, Beat Tribe, 12-10

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco's Giants crashed five Sunday homers in a 16-hit attack that beat the Cleveland Indians 12-10 Sunday.

Rookie first baseman Orlando Cepeda slammed two of the round-trip hits, his second deciding the issue with two men on base in the ninth inning.

The day proved doubly costly to the Indians. Hard-hitting first baseman Vic Wertz suffered a fractured ankle in the third inning and will be out nine weeks or more.

Three of the Giants' homers came in succession in the fifth inning as Willie Kirkland pounded the ball over the right field fence, while Ray Jablonski and Cepeda sent the ball out of the park to the left at the expense of Cleveland starter Dick Brodowski.

Veteran outfielder Bobby Thomson immediately followed Cepeda's three-run, ninth-inning belt with a solo drive of his own. Cal McLish who served the gopher balls was charged with the loss with Curt Barclay credited with the victory.

Tom Hoover, of John Carroll, was voted the most valuable player in the tourney. Hoover and George Leftwich, of John Carroll, Bryan Mallon, All Hallows; Vince Ernst, St. Aloysius, and John Dearie, Manhattan Prep, made the all tournament team.

Johnson Ties Arnold Palmer In Azalea Golf

Finish With 282s, Playoff Set Today

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer and outsider Howie Johnson matched closing four under par 68s Sunday to tie for first place in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament with 282 totals.

They'll play off for top money of $2,000 over 18 holes Monday.

Johnson, 32-year-old former insuranceman who has been a professional only two years, and Palmer, 1954 National Amateur champion who last week won the St. Petersburg, Fla., Open, passed the faltering leaders after first Dow Finsterwald and then George Bayer was unable to hold the advantage.

Bulky Billy Casper moved into third place at 286, four shots off the top pair, to win $1,200.

Johnson, who registers from Glenwoodie, Ill., outside of Chicago, has never won a major tournament. His best finish on the tour was a third at St. Paul last summer.

Palmer came to the last hole needing a birdie three to win, some 30 minutes after Johnson had finished.

The 28-year-old Palmer, seeking to become the first repeat winner in 10 years of Wilmington tournament play, was on the green in two, about 12 feet above the hole. His putt stopped about six inches short and he had to settle for a tie.

Boston Celtics Even NBA Title Series With St. Louis

Sad Sam Chalks Up 16 Points In 136-112 Contest

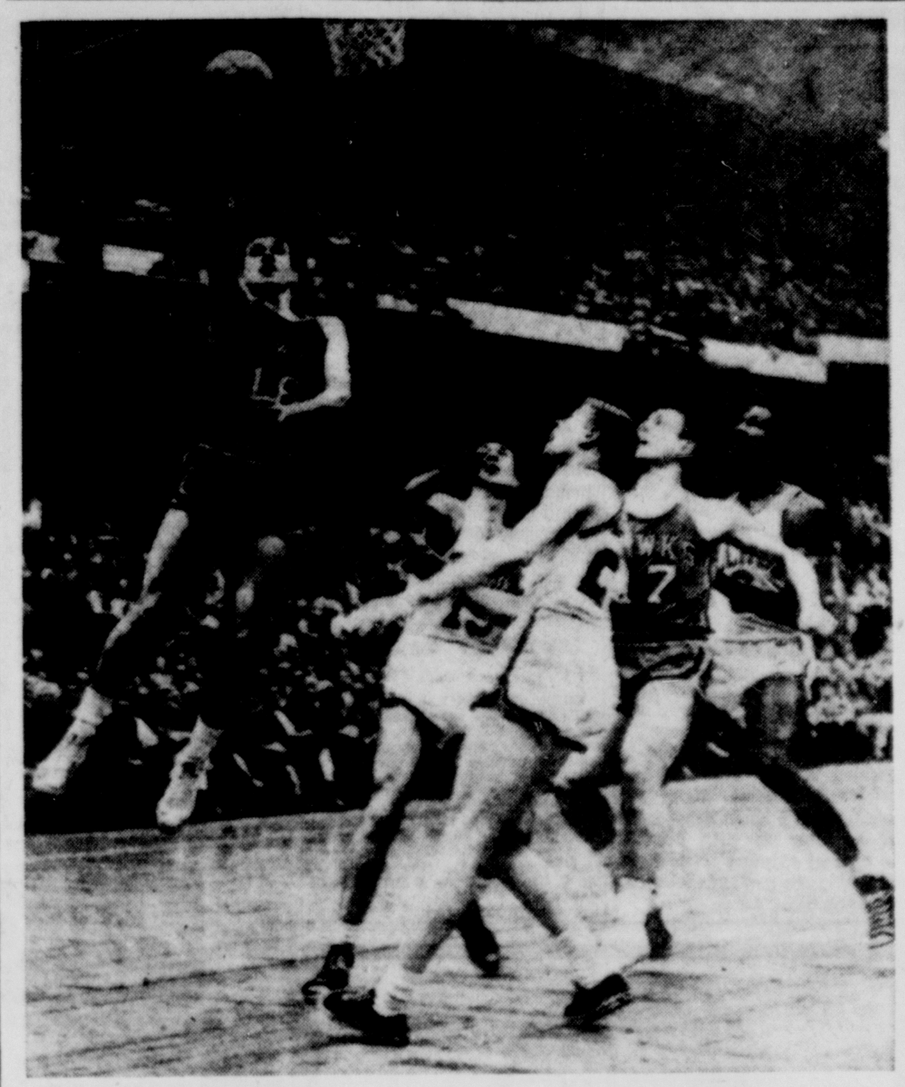
BOSTON (AP) — Boston regained its scoring touch with the help of unheralded Sad Sam Jones for a 136-112 victory over St. Louis Sunday that deadlocked their best of seven final National Basketball Assn. playoff series 1-1.

Though the victory was a strong team effort, Jones captured the imagination of the 10,249 Boston Garden customers for his part in evening the count in the series.

Jones who didn't even play in Saturday's 104-102 St. Louis triumph, dropped in 16 points, excelled on defense and brought the partisan throng to its feet with his rebounding and drive-in shots against taller opponents.

The Celtics also got 25 points from Bob Cousy, 22 each from Bill Sharman and Bill Russell and 20 from Frank Ramsey.

Cliff Hagan remained a troublesome thorn in Boston's side. Hagan tallied 37 points while Bob Pettit was limited to 19. Pesky Slater Martin also hit for 19 for St. Louis.



HAGAN JUST CAN'T BE STOPPED—Cliff Hagan (16), sharpshooter of the St. Louis Hawks, proves a troublesome thorn in the Boston Celtics' side as he hit for 37 points yesterday and 33 Saturday in their two games of the final playoff series at Boston. Hagan is shown circling around Celtics' Arnie Risen (19), Frank Ramsey (23) and Bill Russell (6) to score a one-hander in fourth period of Sunday's game. Med Parks of Hawks is other player shown. Boston's 136-112 victory deadlocked their best-of-seven final playoff series with St. Louis at 1-1. (AP Photofax)

Chicago Cubs Edge Orioles

Bases Full Walk Wins In 12th, 2-1

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Lehman walked Dale Long in the 12th inning to force in the winning run as the Chicago Cubs edged the Baltimore Orioles 2-1 here Sunday.

The Cubs' other run was an unearned tally off Connie Johnson in the first.

Bobby Dams opened the Cubs' half of the 12th with a single. He advanced on Tony Taylor's single with one away. Lehman then struck out Lou Jackson but walked Bob Speake. He worked Long to a 3-2 count but lost him on a high inside pitch to force in the winning run.

Gus Triandos' double and Foster Castleman's single in the fourth accounted for the Orioles' only tally.

Bassey, Moreno Clash Tuesday In Title Bout

Calhoun, Pompey Meet Wednesday

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

A couple of little featherweights from Nigeria and Mexico fight for the world featherweight title in Los Angeles Tuesday night. The international title fight matches champion Hogan (Kid) Bassey, a clever boxer-puncher from Nigeria, and Mexico's slugging contender, Richard Pajarito Moreno.

This outdoor show in Wrigley Field is scheduled for 15 rounds but it will be a major upset if the fight goes the limit. Bassey, 25, is about a 2-1 choice over the 21-year old Mexican, in the first title defense.

The scrap won't be broadcast or telecast. That's tough for the fans around the country for the fight figures to be a real brawl.

The usual Monday, Wednesday and Friday bouts will be televised.

Fight At St. Nick

Monday night's feature at New York's St. Nicholas Arena matches a couple of welterweight prospects in a ten-rounder. They are Jimmy Peters (19-4-1) of Washington and Rudy Sawyer (14-1-1) of New York. Sawyer is trained by former featherweight champion Sandy Saddler. Dumont will telecast (10 p.m. EST).

Middleweight contender Rory Calhoun of White Plains, N.Y., and light heavyweight contender Yolande Pompey of Trinidad, collide Wednesday night (ABC TV, 10 p.m., EST) at Louisville. This shapes up as another slugfest. Calhoun has a 33-3-1 record, including 17 knockouts. Pompey's record is 33-4-3, including 24 kayos.

Gavilan To Face Jones

Former weltwerweight champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba and Ralph (Tiger) Jones of Yonkers, N.Y., clash Friday night (NBC radio-TV, 10 p.m., EST) at the Philadelphia Arena. This is their third and "rubber" meeting.

Gavilan's record is 105-29-6 including 28 kayos. Jones' record is 45-21-4. He has scored 11 kayos.

In another non-television fight, heavyweight contenders Nino Valdes of Cuba and Wayne Bethea of New York meet in a ten rounder at Denver Thursday night. Bethea, ranked sixth by Ring Magazine, subs for injured Harold Carter. Valdes is the No. 8 contender.

Globetrotters Rout Collegians, 75-49

NEW YORK, March 30—(INS)—The Harlem Globetrotters, sparked by Andy Johnson, jumped off to an early lead today and then clowned their way to a 75-to-49 victory over the college basketball All-Stars before 14,021 at Madison Square Garden.

Johnson had 21 points in all and led the Globetrotters to a 21-to-5 lead in the first quarter, as the annual tour opened its 18-day circuit of 18 cities.

Vern Hotton, star guard of Kentucky's NCAA champions, led all the scorers with 22 points. Notre Dame's John McCarthy had 11 more for the All-Stars.

TIGERS AND INDIANS IN TRADE—The Detroit Tigers yesterday traded pitcher Pete Wojey, left, and a reported $20,000 for Cleveland pitcher Vito Valentinetti, center, and infielder Milt Bolling. Wojey, who had an 8-11 record with Tiger farm club at Charleston, W. Va., last year, is a righthander. Bolling joins his brother Frank, who plays second base for Detroit. Valentinetti is from The Bronx, New York. (AP Photofax)

Detroit And Cleveland Figure In Player Swap

Valentinetti, Milt Bolling Traded For Wojey And $20,000

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—The Detroit Tigers Sunday sent minor league pitcher Pete Wojey and a reported $20,000 to Cleveland for infielder Milt Bolling and pitcher Vito Valentinetti.

Tiger General Manager John McHale said Bolling would be used as a utility infielder. His brother, Frank, is Detroit's regular second baseman.

Bolling, 28, batted .227 with Boston and Washington last year before the Indians obtained him in a winter deal.

Valentinetti, a 29-year-old righthander, was 0-0 with the Chicago Cubs last year before he posted a 9-5 record with Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. He was sold to Cleveland late in the season, winning two games and losing two.

Wojey, 34, had an 8-11 record with the Tigers' Charleston, W.Va., farm club in the American Assn. last season. A righthander, he had several trials with the Dodgers before moving to the Detroit organization.

Giants Clout Five Homers

Collect 16 Hits, Beat Tribe, 12-10

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—San Francisco's Giants crashed five Sunday homers in a 16-hit attack that beat the Cleveland Indians 12-10 Sunday.

Rookie first baseman Orlando Cepeda slammed two of the round-trip hits, his second deciding the issue with two men on base in the ninth inning.

The day proved doubly costly to the Indians. Hard-hitting first baseman Vic Wertz suffered a fractured ankle in the third inning and will be out nine weeks or more.

Three of the Giants' homers came in succession in the fifth inning as Willie Kirkland pounded the ball over the right field fence, while Ray Jablonski and Cepeda sent the ball out of the park to the left at the expense of Cleveland starter Dick Brodowski.

Veteran outfielder Bobby Thomson immediately followed Cepeda's three-run, ninth-inning belt with a solo drive of his own. Cal McLish who served the gopher balls was charged with the loss with Curt Barclay credited with the victory.

John Carroll Wins Newport Tourney Title

Archbishop John Carroll High School of Washington, D. C., won the championship in the Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic Tournament at Newport, R. I., by defeating All Hallows High of New York City by the score of 66-46 on Saturday night.

Trenton, N. J., Catholic Boys High trimmed Manhattan Prep of New York for third place, 85-71, and St. Aloysius of Jersey City, N. J., defeated St. Joseph's, Huntington, W. Va., 57-50, in the consolation final.

LaSalle High of Cumberland lost to Trenton in the opening round and also went down before St. Aloysius in the consolation round semi-finals.

Tom Hoover, of John Carroll, was voted the most valuable player in the tourney. Hoover and George Leftwich, of John Carroll, Bryan Mallon, All Hallows; Vince Ernst, St. Aloysius, and John Dearie, Manhattan Prep, made the all tournament team.

Johnson Ties Arnold Palmer In Azalea Golf

Finish With 282s, Playoff Set Today

By KEN ALYTA

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Defending champion Arnold Palmer and outsider Howie Johnson matched closing four under par 68s Sunday to tie for first place in the Azalea Open Golf Tournament with 282 totals.

They'll play off for top money of $2,000 over 18 holes Monday.

Johnson, 32-year-old former insuranceman who has been a professional only two years, and Palmer, 1954 National Amateur champion who last week won the St. Petersburg, Fla., Open, passed the faltering leaders after first Dow Finsterwald and then George Bayer was unable to hold the advantage.

Bulky Billy Casper moved into third place at 286, four shots off the top pair, to win $1,200.

Johnson, who registers from Glenwoodie, Ill., outside of Chicago, has never won a major tournament. His best finish on the tour was a third at St. Paul last summer.

Palmer came to the last hole needing a birdie three to win, some 30 minutes after Johnson had finished.

The 28-year-old Palmer, seeking to become the first repeat winner in 10 years of Wilmington tournament play, was on the green in two, about 12 feet above the hole. His putt stopped about six inches short and he had to settle for a tie.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 30—(INS)—Those two wonderful neighbors of mine. Don Murray and pretty blonde Hope Lang, took off Saturday for New York to confer with Kermit Bloomgarten about co-starring in "Look Homeward, Angel," either in England or on tour.

Don tells me that after director Belden Paulsen of his refugee camp in Sardinia was on "This Is Your Life" show $80,000 was raised by voluntary contributions. This is the camp that takes care of the homeless children.

Mae West is being paged for a motion picture by Jerry Wald, and she told me that she definitely wants to accept but not until she gets the right story.

I asked Mae how she managed to look so young. She said she owes it all to her health program—she doesn't smoke, doesn't drink and does exercises every morning.

"My father was a muscle man," she said, "and I learned this from him."

It took Vic Mature too long to make up his mind about playing Messela in "Ben Hur." Besides, he had another motion picture he was considering so you won't be seeing the brawny Vic in the role that brought Francis X. Bushman back in a big way.

Stephen Boyd, 20th Century-Fox actor who recently finished "The Bravados" in Mexico, made a test for MGM which looks excellent. For the moment he is heading the choice for the second important role.

I'm a fan of Tony Bennett's and finally got to hear him at the Cocoanut Grove with Patti Page, Charlie O'Curran, Anna Marie Alberghetti and her boy friend, Carey Maguire (who is the nicest one her many admirers), Fieldsie and Walter Lang and Jimmy McHugh.

I thoroughly enjoyed him, the Leslies, an excellent dance team, also Freddie Martin's orchestra, and a great bongo drummer by the name of Candido who is part of Tony's Act.

Had a telephone call from John Agar who asked me if he and his wife, Loretta, could stop by and show me their month-old boy whom they adopted. "We're calling his Martin David," said John, "and we're very happy about him because we've talked a long time about adopting a baby."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at Random: All that stands in the way of Arthur O'Connell's marriage to June Leff, NBC-TV casting director, is finding a house.

For the first time since Mike Todd's death Elizabeth Taylor today discussed her future and said she knew she had to pull herself together and go on with her life.

Ingrid Bergman sent our Academy Award winner Joanne Woodward the following cable: "Dear Joanne: Sincerest congratulations on your well deserved Academy Award. I am tied up in London otherwise would have telephoned you."

Even those who were friendly to Linda Christian are disgusted with her antics in Brazil. She can do more with her romances in one week to tear down foreign relations than it takes a diplomat a year to build up.

Patti Page returned to New York Saturday night after a conference with Jerry Wald about starring in a musical.

It's already paying off for Miyoski Umeki to be an Academy Award winner. She will be seen on TV on the Dinah Shore show with Betty Hutton.

Jayne Mansfield's seven-year-old daughter goes to Europe with mother and Mickey Hargitay. Janie Marie's school principal outlined the little girl's school work and she'll have a tutor.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A certain air of freshness about you is both appealing and satisfying. Here's how to make it last through the day.

Fresh As A Daisy

It would be wonderful if it would just naturally last through the day—that delightful feeling of being freshly bathed, coiffed and dressed in clean, pressed clothes. This busy world of ours conspires to cut the feeling. Jobs, very often, take women away from home for so many hours at a time, and into the street and indoor surroundings that help not at all. But there are perhaps more ways to prolong an air of freshness than you've adopted. Let's check through a few of them today.

Keep a toothbrush at the office to use after lunch. Brushing after every meal is recommended to prevent cavities, and the mid-day brushing is both wise and wonderfully refreshing. Make sure your teeth are cleaned by a dentist as often as they need it; the enamel of some teeth makes extra-frequent professional cleaning advisable.

Cleanse your skin and refresh make-up more thoroughly and oftener than may have been your habit—make sure of everything you need at away-from-home-headquarters. And keep all supplies of cosmetics fresh; discard anything that's old enough for the scent to have deteriorated. Use a light, flower-like or woodsy cologne for daytime rather than the femme fatale type of scent which sometimes becomes cloying before the end of the day.

Try a new hair-do that's easier to take care of, so it can be refreshed often during the day, and so your hair is easier to wash and set between beauty shop visits. Keep a small brush handy for rearrangements away from home, and to add brush strokes that are so enlivening to the scalp.

Choose more washable clothes this spring, those which are easy to iron and show few wrinkles. Dependence on yourself as wardrobe mistress helps turn you out spanking fresh on more busy mornings. Plan more white touches for dark dresses—these washable, too, and easy to remove and replace. Keep a good supply of fresh, colorful scarfs and clean gloves ready to go.

TOMORROW: Young Daydreams.

"Why are there service charges on a checking account?"

Pure logic: When the cost of the bank's services to a checking depositor is greater than the interest which the depositor's loanable balance allows the bank to earn, the bank must make a charge. But if you are a checking depositor at our bank you can avoid service charges by maintaining a balance large enough to compensate us for the number of checks you draw. Ask us to work out actual figures—and use our economical checking service fully!

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, March 30—(INS)—Those two wonderful neighbors of mine, Don Murray and pretty blonde Hope Lang, took off Saturday for New York to confer with Kermit Bloomgarten about co-starring in "Look Homeward, Angel," either in England or on tour.

Don tells me that after director Belden Paulsen of his refugee camp in Sardinia was on "This Is Your Life" show $80,000 was raised by voluntary contributions. This is the camp that takes care of the homeless children.

Mae West is being paged for a motion picture by Jerry Wald, and she told me that she definitely wants to accept but not until she gets the right story.

I asked Mae how she managed to look so young. She said she owes it all to her health program—she doesn't smoke, doesn't drink and does exercises every morning.

"My father was a muscle man," she said, "and I learned this from him."

It took Vic Mature too long to make up his mind about playing Messela in "Ben Hur." Besides, he had another motion picture he was considering so you won't be seeing the brawny Vic in the role that brought Francis X. Bushman back in a big way.

Stephen Boyd, 20th Century-Fox actor who recently finished "The Bravados" in Mexico, made a test for MGM which looks excellent. For the moment he is heading the choice for the second important role.

I'm a fan of Tony Bennett's and finally got to hear him at the Cocoanut Grove with Patti Page, Charlie O'Curran, Anna Marie Alberghetti and her boy friend, Carey Maguire (who is the nicest one her many admirers), Fieldsie and Walter Lang and Jimmy McHugh.

I thoroughly enjoyed him, the Leslies, an excellent dance team, also Freddie Martin's orchestra, and a great bongo drummer by the name of Candido who is part of Tony's Act.

Had a telephone call from John Agar who asked me if he and his wife, Loretta, could stop by and show me their month-old boy whom they adopted. "We're calling his Martin David," said John, "and we're very happy about him because we've talked a long time about adopting a baby."

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at Random: All that stands in the way of Arthur O'Connell's marriage to June Leff, NBC-TV casting director, is finding a house.

For the first time since Mike Todd's death Elizabeth Taylor today discussed her future and said she knew she had to pull herself together and go on with her life.

Ingrid Bergman sent our Academy Award winner Joanne Woodward the following cable: "Dear Joanne: Sincerest congratulations on your well deserved Academy Award. I am tied up in London otherwise would have telephoned you."

Even those who were friendly to Linda Christian are disgusted with her antics in Brazil. She can do more with her romances in one week to tear down foreign relations than it takes a diplomat a year to build up.

It's already paying off for Miyoski Umeki to be an Academy Award winner. She will be seen on TV on the Dinah Shore show with Betty Hutton.

Jayne Mansfield's seven-year-old daughter goes to Europe with mother and Mickey Hargitay. Janie Marie's school principal outlined the little girl's school work and she'll have a tutor.

Of Shirley Temple The Two Sides

Shirley Temple passed through New York City the other week, intent on making a fast buck on her manifold business enterprises, and paused just long enough to confess she never really got the greasepaint out of her ears. There is a writ on the books called the Jackie Coogan law which is designed to protect quivering young things like Shirley Temple from exploitation by her elders, but it occurred to me after talking to this dark-haired young mother of three, that she hardly needs it.

Her TV show "Shirley Temple's Storybook" inspired her to reactivate three dead businesses—the Shirley Temple dresses, Shirley Temple coloring books, and Shirley Temple dolls. Then there's a fourth company on the drawing board which will bring out Shirley Temple activity sets for child knitters and so forth. And Random House is about to bring out the Shirley Temple Storybook which will simply be the stories like "Beauty and the Beast" and "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" that she has done on TV. All these things she has done pretty much by herself, unprotected by Jackie Coogan or any other legislation.

All of which supports my theory that acting is the least renumerative and almost the least important part of being an actor any more. Scratch an actor and you will find a tycoon. Scratch an actress and you discover another Hetty Green. Miss Temple, for instance, was approached by Henry Jaffe to do the "Storybook" series and she wrote and signed a letter of agreement, before consulting her lawyer. However, most of the gist of what grew into a thirty-page contract was contained in that letter, including the proviso that she not be bothered more than three days a month.

However, Miss Temple, a bright-eyed bundle of energy, gave me the distinct impression that the three-day limitation irked her not because it was too much work but too little. She frankly admitted she's having a barrel of fun on television and would like to do more rather than less acting. Mostly, Miss Temple is just hostess and narrator but she has acted in one of her storybooks—"Legend of Sleepy Hollow"—and loved it.

"I felt so good doing it I didn't care what the critics said," she declared. "I guess it's because it's the first live acting I had ever done. I was never on the stage." The critics were not overly kind but Miss Temple seemed unperturbed and said she's like to do lots more. Among other parts, she would have liked to have played Minnehaha in "Hiawatha" but since another NBC show is doing Hiawatha that idea had, to be dropped. Also, she'd like "Storybook" to do E. B. White's "Charlotte's Web," a story about a spider with herself in the title role. And maybe some day she will.

As a public personality, Shirley Temple is definitely schizophrenic, though it doesn't bother her much. The Shirley Temple dresses and dolls and coloring book all pertain to the little girl who was a world famous movie star; the TV personality is a grown-up mother of three children who seems to be able to absorb both the young Shirley and the old one without getting indigestion.

This year TV has been peopled by neurotic cowboys and extravagant fairies. Miss Temple admitted there was a saturation point for fairy tales and maybe we had reached it. But "Storybook," she pointed out, had already ventured quite a ways from fairy tales with "Legend of Sleepy Hollow" and would probably get even further away. She'd like to do other children's stories that didn't have any fairies or magic or anything but people in them.

A good many viewers may share this wish. The first great hit in the fairy tale department was "Peter Pan" which was not simply a good story but a great production on all counts. Then came the deluge.

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

(Copyright 1958: The Chicago Tribune)

Q. 1 — Partner opens with spade. As South you hold:

♠9 7 6 ♥K Q 6 4 ♦K J 6 3 ♣4 2

What is your response?

A.—This type of holding is awkward to manage, for there is no completely satisfactory response and the lesser of evils must be chosen. The hand is not strong enough to justify the naming of a new suit at the level of two. It is within the limits of a no trump response, but the worthless doubleton tends to steer me away from that bid. I think it may be stated as a rule that where the responding hand contains a worthless doubleton, a raise of partner's suit should be made with a little less than normal trump support in preference to making a no trump response. We therefore vote for two spades.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠Q9 ♥K 10 9 ♦AJ 10 9 6 4 ♣J9

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump, provided partner will not construe it as a Blackwood bid. This is intended as a raise of the no trump and an invitation to bid a slam if the 2 no trump was made up on a maximum. Your hand is not far removed from the equal of an opening bid in high cards and your partner has opened the bidding and jumped which should make you aware of slam possibilities. If partner has no excess values he should pass.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠AQ 6 5 4 3 ♥10 7 ♦K9 ♣A 10 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. It is somewhat unusual to make a slam try when one has previously made a minimum rebid. Yet is is perfectly logical in this case. At the time North made his first response of two diamonds, South's hand was still in the minimum range, worth 15 points, but now that North has vigorously supported spades, the hand on revaluation is worth 18 points.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♥Q 5 4 ♦Q 10 9 7 6 3 2 ♣A 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. A seven card suit is not sufficient excuse for making a free bid at the level of three. The void in partner's suit should serve as a danger signal. If you bid three diamonds, partner will be forced to rebid. It will no doubt be three spades. What then?

Q. 5—As South you hold:

♠Q 9 ♥AKQJ 9 8 ♦KQJ 4 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. This is normally too strong a hand for a pre-emptive bid, but inasmuch as partner has already passed, considerations of slam should be dismissed. The pre-empt may have epecially good effect if the opponents have a spade fit.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

♠K 6 4 ♥A 10 7 6 3 ♦7 6 3 ♣Q 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. Any excitement induced by possession of the fifth heart is not justified. This hand is worth only 10 points in support of hearts. Just a sound free raise.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ 5 ♥AQJ 6 4 ♦5 3 ♣KQ 10 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. At these prices you cannot afford to show the club suit. Your hand is not strong enough to support a rebid at the level of three. Had partner's response been one spade, your proper rebid would have been two clubs.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠J 5 ♥J 10 5 3 ♦Q 10 8 6 3 2 ♣2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 no trump
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. It is true that you have already warned partner by your diamond bid that your hand lacks the essentials for a raise of his no trump. Since he chose to proceed, he evidently hopes to find you with a hand that is just short of a raise. Inasmuch as your hand contains only four high card points partner is entitled to another warning. It would be a mistake to pass two no trump. Three diamonds would be safer.

Q. 1 — Partner opens with spade. As South you hold:
♠9 7 6 ♥K Q 6 4 ♦K J 6 3 ♣4 2
What is your response?

A.—This type of holding is awkward to manage, for there is no completely satisfactory response and the lesser of evils must be chosen. The hand is not strong enough to justify the naming of a new suit at the level of two. It is within the limits of a no trump response, but the worthless doubleton tends to steer me away from that bid. I think it may be stated as a rule that where the responding hand contains a worthless doubleton, a raise of partner's suit should be made with a little less than normal trump support in preference to making a no trump response. We therefore vote for two spades.

Q. 2—As South you hold:
♠Q9 ♥K 10 9 ♦AJ 10 9 6 4 ♣J9

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 diamond	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Four no trump, provided partner will not construe it as a Blackwood bid. This is intended as a raise of the no trump and an invitation to bid a slam if the 2 no trump was made up on a maximum. Your hand is not far removed from the equal of an opening bid in high cards and your partner has opened the bidding and jumped which should make you aware of slam possibilities. If partner has no excess values he should pass.

Q. 3—As South you hold:
♠AQ 6 5 4 3 ♥10 7 ♦K9 ♣A 10 3

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 spades	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Five clubs. It is somewhat unusual to make a slam try when one has previously made a minimum rebid. Yet is is perfectly logical in this case. At the time North made his first response of two diamonds, South's hand was still in the minimum range, worth 15 points, but now that North has vigorously supported spades, the hand on revaluation is worth 18 points.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♥Q 5 4 ♦Q 10 9 7 6 3 2 ♣A 8 3

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 spade	2 hearts	?

What action do you take?

A.—Pass. A seven card suit is not sufficient excuse for making a free bid at the level of three. The void in partner's suit should serve as a danger signal. If you bid three diamonds, partner will be forced to rebid. It will no doubt be three spades. What then?

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠Q 9 ♥AKQJ 9 8 ♦KQJ 4 ♣6

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
Pass	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Four hearts. This is normally too strong a hand for a pre-emptive bid, but inasmuch as partner has already passed, considerations of slam should be dismissed. The pre-empt may have especially good effect if the opponents have a spade fit.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠K 6 4 ♥A 10 7 6 3 ♦7 6 3 ♣Q 4

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 spade

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. Any excitement induced by possession of the fifth heart is not justified. This hand is worth only 10 points in support of hearts. Just a sound free raise.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ 5 ♥AQJ 6 4 ♦5 3 ♣KQ 10 4 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—Two hearts. At these prices you cannot afford to show the club suit. Your hand is not strong enough to support a rebid at the level of three. Had partner's response been one spade, your proper rebid would have been two clubs.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠J 5 ♥J 10 5 3 ♦Q 10 8 6 3 2 ♣2

The bidding has proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 heart	1 no trump
Pass	2 diamonds	Pass	2 no trump
Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Three diamonds. It is true that you have already warned partner by your diamond bid that your hand lacks the essentials for a raise of his no trump. Since he chose to proceed, he evidently hopes to find you with a hand that is just short of a raise. Inasmuch as your hand contains only four high card points partner is entitled to another warning. It would be a mistake to pass two no trump. Three diamonds would be safer.

Beall Offers Aid To Charles Center

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has offered to help Baltimore obtain a new $19,000,000 federal office building as a part of that city's dramatic plan for the redevelopment of its central business district.

There has been a great need for years, he said, to bring the scattered Federal Government services in Baltimore under one roof, adding that with the current demand for speeding up public works program "now is the time to do this."

He termed the plan to rehabilitate a 22-acre site "bold, far-sighted and imaginative" and that he expects to see the new Charles Center in Baltimore "become a rival of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle and Philadelphia's Penn Center."

WHEREAS, the law setting forth the duties of said Dog Warden is sufficiently broad to cover the City of Cumberland; and

WHEREAS, there are still certain activities concerning which it is felt authority should be specifically given to the person or persons who may be filling the position of Dog Warden for Allegany County, so as to enable them to cope with specific situations identified with urban areas.

NOW, THEREFORE:

SECTION 1: BE IT ORDAINED BY THE MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL OF CUMBERLAND, That Chapter 2, Sections 1 to 10 of the Ordinances of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, titled "Dogs," be and is hereby repealed and in lieu thereof, a new chapter 2, to be entitled "Dogs" is hereby enacted.

Israel Seeks

Jewish refugees forced to leave Arab countries without their property.

"If Arab governments treated their own kinsmen as Israel has treated 1,000,000 Jewish refugees," he said, "the Arab refugee problem would be non-existent today and the misery of these people would not serve cheap political purposes."

Gap Is Closing

Israel's two million people today produce most of their food, and exports have risen from $30 million in 1948 to over $220 million ceed exports, he said but the gap is being closed.

Israel, he said, is grateful for U.S. assistance and prides itself that grants in aid are diminishing as the country advances economically.

The latest loan from the Export-Import Bank, he said, will be used primarily to develop an irrigation network to make the deserts bloom again.

Americans of all faiths, he added, are encouraged to visit Israel and to see how efficiently American aid has been used for economic and social advancement.

Mr. Dinitz was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting held in the Fort Cumberland Hotel and marking the installation of new officers of the area lodge.

Today's Sermonette

Today's Sermonette is a digest of a sermon preached at LaVale Methodist Church by Rev. W. W. Patterson, minister. The sermon digests are made available through the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

"And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver." Matthew 26:15

30 Pieces Of Silver

By REV. W. W. PATTERSON

As we trace the course of the passion of Christ during these Lenten days we discover that several factors combine to make the death of Jesus inevitable. His lowly origin; His lack of educational standards acceptable to the priesthood of Judaism; His years of obscurity in Nazareth made His role as a religious leader a difficult one. "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth," they asked.

However, His ability as a teacher and preacher, and especially as a worker of miracles, soon attracted wide attention, and His name became almost a household word. News of His coming to a community was enough to cause a great stir of anticipation and excitement. Another question was frequently heard, "Can this be the Messiah?"

His increasing popularity and His often divergent views concerning traditional religious matters made Him, in the eyes of some, a dangerous influence in the lives of the people, and a threat to the long established legalistic customs and beliefs. The by-passing of the religious leadership of the nation in a simple yet dramatic approach to God as Heavenly Father, was indeed a new doctrine, and one that could not go unchallenged.

Thus, the inevitable conflict growing out of jealousy, fear and resentment upon the part of the ruling class demanded that, sooner or later, there must be a showdown. Both could not continue, they felt; one would eventually destroy the other. The statement of the Master, "I have not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill it," was not accepted as the truth, and so the days were hastening on to the tragic drama of a cross uplifted outside a city wall.

When great controversial issues are at stake, and when much is to be gained or lost by the final outcome, the great temptation is to use all means, fair or foul, to gain the victory. The Bible, in many respects, is a very human book. When dealing with its saints as well as sinners, it dares to be honest and forthright in its statements or judgements concerning them.

It is clear here that Judas as one of the disciples of Jesus, and the religious leaders at Jerusalem, were not averse to using the power of money to help their cause. "And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver." As we think of it, this was a very small sum to justify such a betrayal of trust.

The money, in itself, could not have been the motivating factor. It represented a "deal" whereby both parties expected to reap much greater rewards. Judas, as some would have us believe, was by this means, forcing the Master's hand, believing that when the crisis finally came that he would throw off the role of compassionate and loving teacher and healer, and would become "the lightning bolt of Israel" to strike down all her enemies and establish again the Jewish kingdom. It was not until Jesus submitted to arrest, and was condemned and led away to be crucified that Judas was convinced that He meant what He said when he told them that this must be his earthly fate. Then, filled with the bitterness and remorse of a man who has seen the truth too late, he could no longer live with himself, and he took his own life at the end of a rope.

What happened to the others who hoped to gain by the death of Christ? Dr. Roy L. Smith says; "Herod, the playboy died and remained dead; Pilate the politician died in disgrace; Annas, the millionaire, died despised of all the Jews; Caiaphas, the high priest who bribed his way to the ecclesiastical throne, was deposed from office to die in shame and to remain an object of contempt. But the Carpenter of Galilee who went about doing the will of God, was raised from the dead to become the immortal hope of all hearts."

Beall Offers Aid To Charles Center

U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall has offered to help Baltimore obtain a new $19,000,000 federal office building as a part of that city's dramatic plan for the redevelopment of its central business district.

There has been a great need for years, he said, to bring the scattered Federal Government services in Baltimore under one roof, adding that with the current demand for speeding up public works program "now is the time to do this."

He termed the plan to rehabilitate a 22-acre site "bold, far-sighted and imaginative" and that he expects to see the new Charles Center in Baltimore "become a rival of Pittsburgh's Golden Triangle and Philadelphia's Penn Center."

Israel Seeks

Jewish refugees forced to leave Arab countries without their property.

"If Arab governments treated their own kinsmen as Israel has treated 1,000,000 Jewish refugees," he said, "the Arab refugee problem would be non-existent today and the misery of these people would not serve cheap political purposes."

Gap Is Closing

Israel's two million people today produce most of their food, and exports have risen from $30 million in 1948 to over $220 million ceed exports, he said but the gap is being closed.

Israel, he said, is grateful for U.S. assistance and prides itself that grants in aid are diminishing as the country advances economically.

The latest loan from the Export-Import Bank, he said, will be used primarily to develop an irrigation network to make the deserts bloom again.

Americans of all faiths, he added, are encouraged to visit Israel and to see how efficiently American aid has been used for economic and social advancement.

"And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver." Matthew 26:15

30 Pieces Of Silver

By REV. W. W. PATTERSON

As we trace the course of the passion of Christ during these Lenten days we discover that several factors combine to make the death of Jesus inevitable. His lowly origin; His lack of educational standards acceptable to the priesthood of Judaism; His years of obscurity in Nazareth made His role as a religious leader a difficult one. "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth," they asked.

However, His ability as a teacher and preacher, and especially as a worker of miracles, soon attracted wide attention, and His name became almost a household word. News of His coming to a community was enough to cause a great stir of anticipation and excitement. Another question was frequently heard, "Can this be the Messiah?"

His increasing popularity and His often divergent views concerning traditional religious matters made Him, in the eyes of some, a dangerous influence in the lives of the people, and a threat to the long established legalistic customs and beliefs. The by-passing of the religious leadership of the nation in a simple yet dramatic approach to God as Heavenly Father, was indeed a new doctrine, and one that could not go unchallenged.

Thus, the inevitable conflict growing out of jealousy, fear and resentment upon the part of the ruling class demanded that, sooner or later, there must be a showdown. Both could not continue, they felt; one would eventually destroy the other. The statement of the Master, "I have not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill it," was not accepted as the truth, and so the days were hastening on to the tragic drama of a cross uplifted outside a city wall.

When great controversial issues are at stake, and when much is to be gained or lost by the final outcome, the great temptation is to use all means, fair or foul, to gain the victory. The Bible, in many respects, is a very human book. When dealing with its saints as well as sinners, it dares to be honest and forthright in its statements or judgements concerning them.

It is clear here that Judas as one of the disciples of Jesus, and the religious leaders at Jerusalem, were not averse to using the power of money to help their cause. "And they covenanted with him for thirty pieces of silver." As we think of it, this was a very small sum to justify such a betrayal of trust.

The money, in itself, could not have been the motivating factor. It represented a "deal" whereby both parties expected to reap much greater rewards. Judas, as some would have us believe, was by this means, forcing the Master's hand, believing that when the crisis finally came that he would throw off the role of compassionate and loving teacher and healer, and would become "the lightning bolt of Israel" to strike down all her enemies and establish again the Jewish kingdom. It was not until Jesus submitted to arrest, and was condemned and led away to be crucified that Judas was convinced that He meant what He said when he told them that this must be his earthly fate. Then, filled with the bitterness and remorse of a man who has seen the truth too late, he could no longer live with himself, and he took his own life at the end of a rope.

What happened to the others who hoped to gain by the death of Christ? Dr. Roy L. Smith says; "Herod, the playboy died and remained dead; Pilate the politician died in disgrace; Annas, the millionaire, died despised of all the Jews; Caiaphas, the high priest who bribed his way to the ecclesiastical throne, was deposed from office to die in shame and to remain an object of contempt. But the Carpenter of Galilee who went about doing the will of God, was raised from the dead to become the immortal hope of all hearts."

Seven Hurt In Collision Of Two Cars

Two Others Escape Injury In Wreck Near Frostburg

Seven persons, including a young New Creek, W. Va., couple and their three-year-old son, were injured in a head-on collision of two automobiles on U.S. 40, half a mile east of Frostburg yesterday.

Admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg were:

Kenneth Junior Cross, 27, New Creek, operator of one car, who sustained several fractured ribs.

Mrs. Wanda Ann Cross, 26, his wife, severe lacerations of the face.

Kenneth Andrew Cross, 3, the couple's son, severe facial lacerations.

Ann Doris McDonald, 18, of 28 Hill Street, Frostburg, driver of the second car, severe shock.

Raymond Miller, Route 3, Meyersdale, possible internal injuries.

Theresa A. Twigg, 18, Eckhart, badly lacerated forehead.

Charlene LaRue, 15, of Maple Street, Frostburg, possible fracture of the pelvis.

Trooper R. L. Davis of the LaVale detachment of Maryland State Police said the accident occurred about 4 p. m. when the Cross vehicle was struck by the McDonald car near the Parkersburg Road intersection.

The state trooper said the second automobile, occupied by six persons, apparently was traveling west toward Frostburg and crossed the center line of the highway, hitting the West Virginia family's eastbound car, then rolling over and landing on its top in a ditch beside the highway.

Two Girls Unhurt

In addition to the four injured persons in the car driven by Miss McDonald and owned by Mr. Miller, there were two other occupants, both of whom escaped injury. They are Darlene Ann Brode, 18, of 157 Maple Street, Frostburg, and Judy Ann Robertson, 18, Route 1, Frostburg.

Officer Davis said no charges have been made pending further investigation of the accident, the second serious traffic collision in Allegany County in four days.

Thursday night on U.S. 220 near Rawlings, William Leroy Lease, 33, Allegany Grove, was killed and a companion, Charles R. Abbott, 24, of RD 5, Cumberland, was seriously injured in a two-truck accident.

Abbott remained in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital last night.

Seven Injured; None Dead

Six occupants of this twisted wreckage that once was a car escaped fatal injuries when two automobiles collided head-on on U. S. Route 40 about one-half mile east of Frostburg yesterday. Four of the occupants were admitted to Miners Hospital, along with a young couple and their three-year-old son who were traveling in the other car. The force of the crash caused this vehicle to flip over on its top in a ditch beside the highway, but no one was killed.

Man Is Fined For Sale Of Beer To Minor

A 25-year-old bartender employed at Dixie Inn, roadside tavern at the intersection of Wiley Ford Road and West Virginia Route 28 was fined $25 and costs Saturday on a charge of illegal sale of beer to a minor under 18.

Justice of the Peace C. J. Phillips in Ridgeley said the bartender, Roy W. Murray, pleaded guilty to the charge, a first offense.

They added that O. E. Brafford, Short Gap, proprietor of the inn, now faces possible citation by the West Virginia Non-Intoxicating Beer Commission at Charleston for suspension of his beer license.

It also is possible West Virginia authorities, in an attempt to break up gangs of minors traversing to taverns in the state to buy beer illegally, may bring contributing charges against the proprietors of the taverns.

Conviction of a more serious offense could bring about revocation of the owner's license to operate a business, police added. If a license is revoked by the beer commission then a business establishment cannot be reopened for one year from the date of revocation.

Mr. Phillips said he has received numerous reports of an "overflow of riffraff" at nearby beer-selling places, adding that many fights have occurred.

Many minors, unable to obtain beer, will have an older person make the purchase for them, police said. These older purchasers also face prosecution if caught.

Authorities said 3.2 beer can be sold in West Virginia to persons over 18, although a buyer must be 21 or over to purchase liquor at the state store. It cannot be sold legally by the drink. Beer cannot be sold except at bars or tables in the taverns and police have been checking on possible violations of this nature.

State Police added that the principal complaints received by them on illegal sales have come from Maryland authorities who report persons under age are crossing the state line to buy beer and liquor in West Virginia.

Tropers C. C. Oliver, R. B. Noechel and Mineral County Sheriff Walter O. Mott investigated the illegal sale.

State Laws Regulate Some Church Functions

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Episcopal churches throughout Maryland once again are reminding their congregations that under state law they will be holding their annual congregational meetings on Easter Monday, which this year falls on April 7.

That annual notice about state law regulating a church meeting always raises some question among Marylanders who recall that in 1649 Maryland was the first colony to recognize freedom of conscience in its "Act Concerning Religion" adopted by the General Assembly just 15 years after the colony was established.

The Easter Monday regulation for Episcopal congregational meetings goes back to the Vestry Act of 1798.

Before the American Revolution, the Church of England was the established church in Maryland and all church property was owned by the British crown. After the Revolution a new Protestant Episcopal Church was founded in the United States in the Anglican tradition but without any loyalty to the British crown.

Cleared Property Title

The Vestry Act of 1798, which gave the title to all church property to the Vestry of each parish, was necessary to clarify the title of Episcopal Church property in Maryland.

Maryland's Constitution of 1867 contains a specific article setting forth that all persons are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty. The only stipulation is that no one under the color of religion shall disturb the good order, peace or safety of the state or infringe the laws of morality or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights.

That does not mean that there are no regulations upon churches in Maryland. Some 59 sections of Article 23 of the 1957 Annotated Code of the Public General Laws of Maryland list regulations for religious corporations.

Sections 256 through 270 are regulations for religious corporations in general. The succeeding regulations concern four specific denominations. Sections 271 through 274 are for Roman Catholic churches. Sections 275 through 297 are for the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, which includes Baltimore and ten counties. Sections 298 through 312 cover the Episcopal Diocese of Easton embracing nine Eastern Shore counties. Section 313 is specifically for Methodist churches. Section 314 covers Presbyterian churches which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

No Reference To Doctrine

Opinions on these sections specify that the powers granted to church trustees are only to the management of property and no authority is given over matters of doctrine or discipline. These regulations, in other words, concern secular rather than ecclesiastical matters.

Here's the wording of Section 256 concerning religious corporations in general:

"In every church, religious society or congregation, of whatever sect, order or denomination, or which shall at any time hereafter be known and acknowledged in the state, and protected in the free and full exercise of its religion by the Constitution and the laws thereof, there shall be sufficient power and authority in all persons above 21 belonging to any such church, society or congregation, to elect at their discretion, certain sober and discreet persons, not less than four nor more than 25, which persons so elected, upon being registered as hereinafter directed, shall be constituted a body politic or corporate to act as trustees in the name and behalf of the particular church, society or congregation for which they are respectively chosen, and manage the estate, property, interest and inheritance of the same."

That makes it clear that the state laws are concerned only with the management of church property and not with matters of doctrine or discipline.

Israel Seeks Co-Existence With Arabs

Has 'Let Live' Motto, B'nai B'rith Told

Live and let live is Israel's motto as it marks its 10th year of independence, members of Western Maryland B'nai B'rith lodge were told here last night.

Israel would like nothing better than to grow and prosper in peace, Simcha Dinitz, a research analyst for the Israel Embassy in Washington, reported, "but let nobody doubt Israel's ability to grow and develop under any circumstances."

He said that if Israel cannot achieve an immediate accord with Arab states, it must aim for co-existence, and remain strong as it strives for that ideal.

Nothing can deter aggression more efficiently, he said, than for a country to keep vigilant and strong, so aggression from any quarter will not pay.

Cites Israel's Strength

Mr. Dinitz, who served with the Israeli Army during Israel's "war of liberation," reported Israel's strength lies not in armaments but in the concept of "ingathering" its brethren, its rising agricultural production, its cultural progress and vision, "without which a nation shall perish."

Recent military engagements between Israel and the Arab world, he said, prove that battles are not won solely by the number of soldiers or even by the quality of armaments, but by the ideals for which they are fighting.

In an address marking the coming celebration of the 10th year of independence April 24, Mr. Dinitz said Israel has come a long way in the decade.

Israel's population, he said, grew from 650,000 to 2,000,000 during the decade.

The new nation created out of a desolate land, he said, has become a bulwark of democracy in an area which has few ardent exponents of Democracy.

The Arab world has been growing during Israel's brief history, he said, and now numbers 11 separate sovereignties, stretched over three million miles of land rich in opportunities.

"Is the world asking too much," he queried, "if it demands of this vast empire that it live in peace and harmony with a little state established in the cradle of its birth?"

"We do not envy and do not begrudge the Arab nations for their three million square miles but cannot apologize for our 8,000 miles," he said.

Integrates 80,000

The Arab refugee problem, he reported, was not created by Israel and its solution is not postponed because of Israel.

The Arab world, he said, has vast areas in which refugees can be nestled and the UN has a fourth of a billion dollars available for the resettlement of refugees.

But this vast sum, he said, lies idle because of the refusal of the Arab governments to take positive steps which might end the refugee problem "and deprive them of a political football."

Israel, he said, has integrated 80,000 Arab refugees in her territory while accepting half a million

WILLIAM M. WILSON

Former Local Man Promoted By U. S. Steel

Mrs. Frank M. Wilson, 417 Washington Street, has received word that her son, William M. Wilson, has been promoted to the position of manager of passenger and automotive services of United States Steel Corporation.

In his new capacity, Mr. Wilson will direct all commercial passenger transportation activities for the corporation.

He will also manage the operation of one of the largest automobile fleets in the world. It is estimated that the United States Steel fleet now consists of over 4,000 cars and trucks.

Mr. Wilson will also serve in an advisory capacity to all United States Steel's subsidiary companies in regard to passenger carrier service.

He is the youngest traffic executive to hold a position of this type with United States Steel and will continue to direct the activities from Pittsburgh.

He is a son of Mrs. Wilson and the late Dr. Frank M. Wilson. He graduated from Allegany High School and served 31 months on a Navy LST during World War II.

Mr. Wilson studied business administration at the University of Maryland and joined US Steel when he graduated.

Higher Jail Population Boosts Budget

Increase in petty crime in Allegany County is responsible for one of the small increases in the county budget which will be adopted on Tuesday, April 15.

Last year, Sheriff Edward R. Muir requested a $10,000 budget for the operation of the County Jail. This year, Commissioner William A. Wilson pointed out, the sheriff is asking for $14,000 for the jail.

As Mr. Wilson explained it, Sheriff Muir anticipated an average daily jail population of 19 inmates during the 1957-58 fiscal year when he asked for the $10,000. Instead the average jail population has been 31 inmates which is the reason the increased money is needed. The commission agreed that this was one budget that could not be cut.

Ridgeley Boosters Will Meet Tonight

The Ridgeley High School Boosters Club will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in Ridgeley High School, according to Eston Turner, president.

Business will include reports on the membership drive and from chairmen of standing committees.

Plans will be completed for the annual sports banquet which the club will sponsor with the PTA during April.

Burglars Get About $2,000 In Meyersdale

Moose, Legion And Elks Clubs Hit

Burglars, striking in the early morning hours yesterday, raided three veterans and service clubs in central Meyersdale, Pa., making off with an estimated $1,500 to $2,000 in cash.

Somerset County authorities, working with Pennsylvania State Police, said the burglars obtained approximately $1,200 to $1,500 from a small safe at the Loyal Order of Moose Club; another $400 from a tin box at the B.P.O. Elks Club; and nearly $200 in small bills and change from a petty cash box and several pinball machines at the Meyersdale American Legion club.

Police believe the three jobs were committed by the same person or persons, as all entries into the three buildings were through rear windows which were pried open or torn out.

The three clubs also are located within a city block of each other, the Moose club on the main street, the Elks on a side street, and the Legion on Route 219.

As far as can be ascertained the Moose club is the heaviest loser. The large amount of money was left in the office safe because the attendant was ill and had not taken the money to the bank Saturday.

The thieves pried open a window to gain entrance to the Moose and then smashed open the small safe which contained club papers and the cash.

A rear toilet window was broken out to get into the Legion club, authorities said, and entrance was gained in the Elks club by tearing out the window frame.

Police believe the three jobs were committed sometime between 3 a.m. and 7 a.m. yesterday.

Receipts From State Forests Are Reported

The semi-annual report on the management of state forests of District One which are located in Allegany and Garrett counties has been compiled, William H. Johnson, district forester, announced.

During the period, January 1, 1957 through June 30, 1957, the gross income on timber sales was $8,120. A breakdown includes the sale of 224,000 board feet of saw timber; 679 cords of pulp wood; 2,155 cubic feet of mine posts; 1,165 cubic feet of pin wood; 1,370 chestnut fence rails and four tons of tanbark.

Other miscellaneous incomes from the forest land include gas leases, Green Ridge, $2,803; rights of way, $174 and rentals, $342, in all forests; gas royalties, $53.42 in Garrett County; recreation receipts, all forests, $3,979.

During 1957 a half million trees were planted, according to Mr. Johnson, who said that this spring some 400,000 trees were planted.

Yet to be reforested are less than 150 acres which should be accomplished next year. Green Ridge in Allegany County, Swallow Falls, Savage River and Potomac State Forests in Garrett County are included in the report.

Higher sales of timber are realized during the second half of the calendar year, according to Mr. Johnson, who said this is also true of receipts realized from recreation facilities.

Seven Hurt In Collision Of Two Cars

Two Others Escape Injury In Wreck Near Frostburg

Seven persons, including a young New Creek, W. Va., couple and their three-year-old son, were injured in a head-on collision of two automobiles on U.S. 40, half a mile east of Frostburg yesterday.

Admitted to Miners Hospital in Frostburg were:

Kenneth Junior Cross, 27, New Creek, operator of one car, who sustained several fractured ribs.

Mrs. Wanda Ann Cross, 26, his wife, severe lacerations of the face.

Kenneth Andrew Cross, 3, the couple's son, severe facial lacerations.

Ann Doris McDonald, 18, of 28 Hill Street, Frostburg, driver of the second car, severe shock.

Raymond Miller, Route 3, Meyersdale, possible internal injuries.

Theresa A. Twigg, 18, Eckhart, badly lacerated forehead.

Charlene LaRue, 15, of Maple Street, Frostburg, possible fracture of the pelvis.

Trooper R. L. Davis of the LaVale detachment of Maryland State Police said the accident occurred about 4 p. m. when the Cross vehicle was struck by the McDonald car near the Parkersburg Road intersection.

The state trooper said the second automobile, occupied by six persons, apparently was traveling west toward Frostburg and crossed the center line of the highway, hitting the West Virginia family's eastbound car, then rolling over and landing on its top in a ditch beside the highway.

Two Girls Unhurt

In addition to the four injured persons in the car driven by Miss McDonald and owned by Mr. Miller, there were two other occupants, both of whom escaped injury. They are Darlene Ann Brode, 18, of 157 Maple Street, Frostburg, and Judy Ann Robertson, 18, Route 1, Frostburg.

Officer Davis said no charges have been made pending further investigation of the accident, the second serious traffic collision in Allegany County in four days.

Thursday night on U.S. 220 near Rawlings, William Leroy Lease, 33, Allegany Grove, was killed and a companion, Charles R. Abbott, 24, of RD 5, Cumberland, was seriously injured in a two-truck accident.

Abbott remained in "critical" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital last night.

Seven Injured; None Dead

Six occupants of this twisted wreckage that once was a car escaped fatal injuries when two automobiles collided head-on on U. S. Route 40 about one-half mile east of Frostburg yesterday. Four of the occupants were admitted to Miners Hospital, along with a young couple and their three-year-old son who were traveling in the other car. The force of the crash caused this vehicle to flip over on its top in a ditch beside the highway, but no one was killed.

Man Is Fined For Sale Of Beer To Minor

A 25-year-old bartender employed at Dixie Inn, roadside tavern at the intersection of Wiley Ford Road and West Virginia Route 28 was fined $25 and costs Saturday on a charge of illegal sale of beer to a minor under 18.

Justice of the Peace C. J. Phillips in Ridgeley said the bartender, Roy W. Murray, pleaded guilty to the charge, a first offense.

West Virginia State Police made the charge against Murray, stating he sold beer to a boy under 18 on March 15 while tending bar at the inn.

They added that O. E. Brafford, Short Gap, proprietor of the inn, now faces possible citation by the West Virginia Non-Intoxicating Beer Commission at Charleston for suspension of his beer license.

It also is possible West Virginia authorities, in an attempt to break up gangs of minors traversing to taverns in the state to buy beer illegally, may bring contributing charges against the proprietors of the taverns.

Conviction of a more serious offense could bring about revocation of the owner's license to operate a business, police added. If a license is revoked by the beer commission then a business establishment cannot be reopened for one year from the date of revocation.

Mr. Phillips said he has received numerous reports of an "overflow of riffraff" at nearby beer-selling places, adding that many fights have occurred.

Many minors, unable to obtain beer, will have an older person make the purchase for them, police said. These older purchasers also face prosecution if caught.

Authorities said 3.2 beer can be sold in West Virginia to persons over 18, although a buyer must be 21 or over to purchase liquor at the state store. It cannot be sold legally by the drink. Beer cannot be sold except at bars or tables in the taverns and police have been checking on possible violations of this nature.

State Police added that the principal complaints received by them on illegal sales have come from Maryland authorities who report persons under age are crossing the state line to buy beer and liquor in West Virginia.

Tropers C. C. Oliver, R. B. Noechel and Mineral County Sheriff Walter O. Mott investigated the illegal sale.

State Laws Regulate Some Church Functions

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Episcopal churches throughout Maryland once again are reminding their congregations that under state law they will be holding their annual congregational meetings on Easter Monday, which this year falls on April 7.

That annual notice about state law regulating a church meeting always raises some question among Marylanders who recall that in 1649 Maryland was the first colony to recognize freedom of conscience in its "Act Concerning Religion" adopted by the General Assembly just 15 years after the colony was established.

The Easter Monday regulation for Episcopal congregational meetings goes back to the Vestry Act of 1798.

Before the American Revolution, the Church of England was the established church in Maryland and all church property was owned by the British crown. After the Revolution a new Protestant Episcopal Church was founded in the United States in the Anglican tradition but without any loyalty to the British crown.

Cleared Property Title

The Vestry Act of 1798, which gave the title to all church property to the Vestry of each parish, was necessary to clarify the title of Episcopal Church property in Maryland.

Maryland's Constitution of 1867 contains a specific article setting forth that all persons are equally entitled to protection in their religious liberty. The only stipulation is that no one under the color of religion shall disturb the good order, peace or safety of the state or infringe the laws of morality or injure others in their natural, civil or religious rights.

That does not mean that there are no regulations upon churches in Maryland. Some 59 sections of Article 23 of the 1957 Annotated Code of the Public General Laws of Maryland list regulations for religious corporations.

Sections 256 through 270 are regulations for religious corporations in general. The succeeding regulations concern four specific denominations. Sections 271 through 274 are for Roman Catholic churches. Sections 275 through 297 are for the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Maryland, which includes Baltimore and ten counties. Sections 298 through 312 cover the Episcopal Diocese of Easton embracing nine Eastern Shore counties. Section 313 is specifically for Methodist churches. Section 314 covers Presbyterian churches which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

No Reference To Doctrine

Opinions on these sections specify that the powers granted to church trustees are only to the management of property and no authority is given over matters of doctrine or discipline. These regulations, in other words, concern secular rather than ecclesiastical matters.

Here's the wording of Section 256 concerning religious corporations in general:

"In every church, religious society or congregation, of whatever sect, order or denomination, or which shall at any time hereafter be known and acknowledged in the state, and protected in the free and full exercise of its religion by the Constitution and the laws thereof, there shall be sufficient power and authority in all persons above 21 belonging to any such church, society or congregation, to elect at their discretion, certain sober and discreet persons, not less than four nor more than 25, which persons so elected, upon being registered as hereinafter directed, shall be constituted a body politic or corporate to act as trustees in the name and behalf of the particular church, society or congregation for which they are respectively chosen, and manage the estate, property, interest and inheritance of the same."

That makes it clear that the state laws are concerned only with the management of church property and not with matters of doctrine or discipline.

Israel Seeks Co-Existence With Arabs

Has 'Let Live' Motto, B'nai B'rith Told

Live and let live is Israel's motto as it marks its 10th year of independence, members of Western Maryland B'nai B'rith lodge were told here last night.

Israel would like nothing better than to grow and prosper in peace, Simcha Dinitz, a research analyst for the Israel Embassy in Washington, reported, "but let nobody doubt Israel's ability to grow and develop under any circumstances."

He said that if Israel cannot achieve an immediate accord with Arab states, it must aim for co-existence, and remain strong as it strives for that ideal.

Nothing can deter aggression more efficiently, he said, than for a country to keep vigilant and strong, so aggression from any quarter will not pay.

Cites Israel's Strength

Mr. Dinitz, who served with the Israeli Army during Israel's "war of liberation," reported Israel's strength lies not in armaments but in the concept of "ingathering" its brethren, its rising agricultural production, its cultural progress and vision, "without which a nation shall perish."

Recent military engagements between Israel and the Arab world, he said, prove that battles are not won solely by the number of soldiers or even by the quality of armaments, but by the ideals for which they are fighting.

In an address marking the coming celebration of the 10th year of independence April 24, Mr. Dinitz said Israel has come a long way in the decade.

Israel's population, he said, grew from 650,000 to 2,000,000 during the decade.

The new nation created out of a desolate land, he said, has become a bulwark of democracy in an area which has few ardent exponents of Democracy.

The Arab world has been growing during Israel's brief history, he said, and now numbers 11 separate sovereignties, stretched over three million miles of land rich in opportunities.

"Is the world asking too much," he queried, "if it demands of this vast empire that it live in peace and harmony with a little state established in the cradle of its birth?"

"We do not envy and do not begrudge the Arab nations for their three million square miles but cannot apologize for our 8,000 miles," he said.

Integrates 80,000

The Arab refugee problem, he reported, was not created by Israel and its solution is not postponed because of Israel.

The Arab world, he said, has vast areas in which refugees can be nestled and the UN has a fourth of a billion dollars available for the resettlement of refugees.

But this vast sum, he said, lies idle because of the refusal of the Arab governments to take positive steps which might end the refugee problem "and deprive them of a political football."

Israel, he said, has integrated 80,000 Arab refugees in her territory while accepting half a million

WILLIAM M. WILSON

Former Local Man Promoted By U. S. Steel

Mrs. Frank M. Wilson, 417 Washington Street, has received word that her son, William M. Wilson, has been promoted to the position of manager of passenger and automotive services of United States Steel Corporation.

In his new capacity, Mr. Wilson will direct all commercial passenger transportation activities for the corporation.

He will also manage the operation of one of the largest automobile fleets in the world. It is estimated that the United States Steel fleet now consists of over 4,000 cars and trucks.

Mr. Wilson will also serve in an advisory capacity to all United States Steel's subsidiary companies in regard to passenger carrier service.

He is the youngest traffic executive to hold a position of this type with United States Steel and will continue to direct the activities from Pittsburgh.

He is a son of Mrs. Wilson and the late Dr. Frank M. Wilson. He graduated from Allegany High School and served 31 months on a Navy LST during World War II.

Mr. Wilson studied business administration at the University of Maryland and joined US Steel when he graduated.

Higher Jail Population Boosts Budget

Increase in petty crime in Allegany County is responsible for one of the small increases in the county budget which will be adopted on Tuesday, April 15.

Last year, Sheriff Edward R. Muir requested a $10,000 budget for the operation of the County Jail. This year, Commissioner William A. Wilson pointed out, the sheriff is asking for $14,000 for the jail.

As Mr. Wilson explained it, Sheriff Muir anticipated an average daily jail population of 19 inmates during the 1957-58 fiscal year when he asked for the $10,000. Instead the average jail population has been 31 inmates which is the reason the increased money is needed. The commission agreed that this was one budget that could not be cut.

Ridgeley Boosters Will Meet Tonight

The Ridgeley High School Boosters Club will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in Ridgeley High School, according to Eston Turner, president.

Business will include reports on the membership drive and from chairmen of standing committees.

Plans will be completed for the annual sports banquet which the club will sponsor with the PTA during April.

Burglars Get About $2,000 In Meyersdale

Moose, Legion And Elks Clubs Hit

Burglars, striking in the early morning hours yesterday, raided three veterans and service clubs in central Meyersdale, Pa., making off with an estimated $1,500 to $2,000 in cash.

Somerset County authorities, working with Pennsylvania State Police, said the burglars obtained approximately $1,200 to $1,500 from a small safe at the Loyal Order of Moose Club; another $400 from a tin box at the B.P.O. Elks Club; and nearly $200 in small bills and change from a petty cash box and several pinball machines at the Meyersdale American Legion club.

Police believe the three jobs were committed by the same person or persons, as all entries into the three buildings were through rear windows which were pried open or torn out.

The three clubs also are located within a city block of each other, the Moose club on the main street, the Elks on a side street, and the Legion on Route 219.

A rear toilet window was broken out to get into the Legion club, authorities said, and entrance was gained in the Elks club by tearing out the window frame.

Police believe the three jobs were committed sometime between 3 a.m. and 7 a.m. yesterday.
